Guard Daughters Of Police Commissioner

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—New York's drive on vice and gambling racketeering took on the aspects of an out-and-out war between the police department and the organized underworld today when it became known that threats had been made against the two attractive daughters of police commissioner Lewis J. Valentine.

The girls, Ruth and Miriam Valentine, aged 18 and 16, respectively, are being constantly guarded by crack detectives under orders to shoot to kill if anyone attempts to molest them.

Last night when the girls attended lenten services in Brooklyn they were taken to and from their church in police squad cars and uniformed men are being kept on guard day and night in front of their home.

The first threat against the girls was received by Mrs. George Scanlon, neighbor of Commissioner Valentine. A man called her on the phone and she was told to inform him that bodily harm would befall his daughters if "he doesn't watch his step."

Declares Girl Shot Herself

ALSO TELLS JURY WOMAN SHOT HIM

(International News Service)

LEBANON, Pa., Mar. 9—Taking the stand in his own defense, Byron A. Laudermilch, 60 year old manufacturer, today denied that he shot and killed Emma Miller 26, the factory worker with whom he has been friendly for six years.

Instead, he charged the girl shot him first and then sent a fatal bullet into her breast from the same gun.

He left her, he testified, in a roadside ditch near the lonely National Guard reservation at Colebrook, to seek aid but was unable to continue further after he reached a cottage he owned a short distance from the scene of the shooting.

Girl Shot Him

Calmly and quietly the elderly manufacturer testified concerning his friendship and intimacies with the girl who once had been employed in his factory. He told how they went riding on the evening of December 5 when the girl was fatally wounded. As he stood by his car parked near the deserted reservation, he said the Miller girl shot him in the side and then ended her own life. She died several days later in the Good Samaritan hospital at Lebanon.

The commonwealth, however, maintains Laudermilch, anxious to break his friendship with the girl, shot her out of jealously and resentment.

District Attorney James W. Atkins rested for the commonwealth this morning and defense Attorney Clarence D. Becker outlined Laudermilch's case, asserting he would show his client was innocent of the murder charges of which the commonwealth demanded the death penalty.

Letherman Case At Greensburg To Reach Jury Today

Pleas Being Made In Case—Defense Asks For Acquittal

PROSECUTION SEEKS SECOND DEGREE

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Mar. 9.—A dramatic plea was made in a tense courtroom here today by defense attorney Vincent Smith for the jury hearing the murder trial of William Letherman, youthful athlete, to send him back to his home with his titian-haired mother.

Letherman is on trial for the slaying of his pretty sweetheart, Miss Viola Dennis, Donora musician and former Pitt coed, who died last August 17.

The state was to close its arguments later today and the case given to the jury tonight.

Tried To Reform Girl

Smith pounded with his fists on the desk before the jury box and used all the oratorical ability he could summon to paint Letherman as a model youth, anxious to marry the girl he had courted for four years. He pictured the former University of Alabama student not as a jealous fiend who brutally beat the girl to death in a car near a deserted churchyard but a boy who loved her, protected her and tried to reform her of her alleged drinking tendencies.

"William Letherman's testimony is the only real evidence in this case," shouted the attorney. "It was like pulling teeth for the prosecutor to gain the admission from this boy that the girl he loved drank too much.

"Look at that lovely woman there. She is a mother. She is the mother of William. I want you members of the jury to send that mother back to her home. I want you to send her back to her home in the arms of this boy who has told the whole truth about this terrible thing."

New Warfare Seen In Senate

Disrupted Senate Heads Into Political War On Farley Probe Issue

HINT FREE DEBATE MAY BE CURBED

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9.—A thoroughly disrupted senate headed toward new political warfare today in the wake of the demand of Senator Long (D) of Louisiana, for an investigation into the official conduct of Postmaster General James A. Farley.

Administration leaders sought to acquit Farley without staging an open investigation of Long's charges. A Republican minority demanded a public inquiry to determine the truth or falsity of Long's accusations.

See Wild Political Wrangle.

The issue will be settled next week but not without a wild political wrangle, the Republicans will be armed with the knowledge that the administration's handling of Long's charge is in direct conflict with long established senate practice and custom.

They recall how a like resolution by Senator Wheeler (D) of Montana resulted in an investigation that drove Attorney General Harry S. Daugherty out of office and another by Senator Walsh (D) of Montana drove Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby out, Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall into jail and recovered tremendously valuable naval oil lands.

The effect of Long's attack on presidential policies and Farley was far reaching. It may serve to administer another defeat to the presi-

ATHENS NORMAL DURING TURMOIL

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

ATHENS, Mar. 9—Taking advantage of an improvement in the weather, Greek government troops in Macedonia launched a decisive campaign against rebel forces today as the nation went on a war footing to cope with the crisis.

War Minister Kondylis personally led the loyal troops in the concerted onslaught against the insurgents. His infantry and cavalry detachments were reinforced by a fleet of airplanes and within a short time after the attack commenced, the rebels were reported in retreat.

To ease the public burden and facilitate financing of the campaign against the rebels, whose revolt against the government of premier Panayoti Tsaldaris has plunged Greece into civil war, president Zaimas signed a degree extending for two weeks payment of all bills due between March 1 and 25.

Athens Normal

At the same time, he authorized the post office to accept for free transmission all correspondence between loyal soldiers and Greek communities abroad provided they embrace pledges of cooperation with the government.

Athens remained normal and outwardly unaffected by the fighting in the provinces, but the gravity of the situation was brough home to the populace by arrival of three Italian warships at Phaleron, the capital's closest harbor, to protect Italian interests.

The government placed high hopes in the Macedonian offensive, believing that a major victory in this sector would bring the revolt to a speedy end.

London, March 9—Government troops began the long-delayed assault on rebel strongholds in Macedonia today, according to a central news dispatch from Salonika.

But Verne said, 'I have the gun first.' They fought to the back of the house, where my son got the gun and shot. Everybody knows what a fine boy Verne is."

In the cell where he awaited a hearing, Laverne declined to discuss the shooting.

TURKEY FEARS BULGARIA MAY SEEK OLD SEA OUTLET

of territory bordering on the Aegean Sea. Today all of it belongs either to Greece or Turkey.

Fear that Bulgaria one day would attempt to regain this territory led Turkey and Greece to sign a pact providing for the mutual guaranty of their borders with respect to Bulgaria.

It is under this pact that Turkey now has concentrated a fourth of its army in Turkish Thrace and is sending troops into territory supposed to be demilitarized.

The concentration of Turkish forces in Thrace is intended as a warning to Bulgaria that Turkey will intervene if the former attempts to take advantage of the Grecian Civil War to seek an outlet to the sea at Greece's expense.

Alliances Are Involved

Turkey is bound up in military alliances with the little entente which in turn is linked by similar alliances with France.

If Turkey became involved in a war with Bulgaria it could call upon these other allies, which might quickly lead to a general European conflict.

Bulgaria on the other hand has shunned alignment with France's satellites and refused to enter the Balkin pact for the maintenance of the territorial status quo. In this respect, it has won the sympathy of Premier Mussolini, who is believed in diplomatic circles to be desirious of using Bulgaria both as a wedge in French solidarity in the Balkans and as a threat to Yugoslavia, Italy's traditional enemy which borders on Bulgaria.

Relief prevails in authoritative quarters here that the big powers will be able to prevent the present incident from causing the Balkan pot to boil over, but the task is considered a delicate one in view of Bulgaria's unique position of independence from spheres of influence.

Home Town Folks Defend Gable

(International News Service)

HOPEDALE, O., Mar. 9.—Evangelist Samuel Williams made the mistake of belittling Clark Gable in the movie star's home town yesterday, and today the good citizens (all 800 of them) arose and virtually verbally "tarred and feathered" the well-meaning minister.

"The people of Hopedale look up to Clark Gable as their first citizen," declared Mayor H. M. Bell.

Women of the community defended Gable as 'an artist in the true sense of the word".

Evangelist Williams set off the fireworks when he appeared before the Hopedale Parent-Teachers' Association in the local church—the same that Gable attended as a boy.

"The company that youth keeps largely determines their actions," the evangelist told the citizens. "When a youngster goes to the theater to see the famed Clark Gable, he is mingling in society of the Hollywood stars who glorify perverted love."

The evangelist added that Gable "has brought no real credit to Hopedale."

May Curb Debate.

Another battle may come over the hint of Senator Carter Glass (D) of Virginia, that the administration will take steps to curb free debate in the senate. This threat has been heard from time to time but no effort ever has been made to prevent unlimited debate—except under the traditional cloture rule, by which a two-thirds vote may limit debate on any bill to a single hour for each senator.

Cloture may be sought on the president's work relief bill. If it is, it will be defeated, since almost a majority of the senate favor unlimited debate on it, even if Huey makes a political speech every day.

An autopsy performed on the body last night by Dr. Stacy C. Howard revealed that the child's clothing had been lifted by the maniac killer who slashed the "X" and plunged the weapon three times into the child's heart.

Splotches of what is believed to be blood were found in a small shed in the rear of a deserted house on the outskirts of the city. Samples were taken to the University hospital, to be analyzed.

No signs of a struggle were found near the bridge, police said, and they were attempting to determine where Richard had been killed. The child's mittens were in place and the boy was relaxed.

ceeded in pressing the rebels back at several points.

Improved weather enabled government planes to co-operate in the reported advance, the despatch stated.

Denies Bulgaria Mobilizing

Berlin, March 9—Althought denying charges Bulgaria was mobilizing, premier and war minister gen. Patkeff Zlateff in semi-official dispatches from Sofia today was quoted as avowing his country was determined to maintain peace in the Balkans.

"We reinforced our border guards, which normally consist of groups of four and five soldiers in stretches of from four to ten kilometers along the frontier," premier Zlateff was quoted as saying. "This is entirely inadequate in anticipation of further Greek border crossings."

Venizelos Takes Island

London, March 9—Former premier Eleutherios Venizelos of Greece, leader of the Greek revolt, today took over the active rulership of the island of Crete, where he lives, according to an exchange telegraph dispatch from Athens.

The governor of the island, loyal to premier P. M. Tsaldiras, was arrested last Sunday soon after the outbreaks of the revolt when most of the citizens of the island joined the rebels.

Venizelos, according to the dispatch, has imposed taxes upon the inhabitants.

Report Turkish Steamer Seized

Athens, March 9—The heavy armed Greek cruiser Averoff, in the hands of rebels, was reported to have seized the Turkish cargo steamer Ikonion today, commandeered it, and proceeded to the island of Mytilene, rebel stronghold in the Aegean Sea.

Heavy rains and snow delayed the "Big Battle" of the Greek revolt, an encounter expected to break out in the Struma River valley, in Macedonia, momentarily and likely to be the final decisive engagement of the week-old uprising.

A steady stream of planes and cavalry, artillery, and infantry units was being drawn upto augment the already large loyal government forces amassed on the west bank of the Struma, near Salonica.

acquittal in criminal court here today.

Denying the motion, Judge William T. Dom, said:

"All the circumstances taken together warrant this case going to the jury."

Defense Attorney David M. McCloskey then requested Judge Dom to instruct the jury that no evidence was offered to show that Letherman struck Miss Dennis with a bottle or other weapon as contended by the prosecution. The jurist again declined the request.

Nearing Jury

Immediately, the prosecution prepared to ask for a conviction of second degree murder while the defense awaited its opportunity to plea for acquittal on the ground that Viola accidentally fell to her death over an embankment.

The case was expected to reach the jury late today. Letherman is charged with second degree murder. In an effort to bolster his defense, his pretty titian-haired mother took the stand and denied she had tried to stifle the investigation into the girl's death.

The father of the girl, W. W. Dennis, Donora council president, was also a witness. He had directly accused the mother of the youth of hampering authorities.

Was Not True

For the first time Mrs. Letherman showed the emotion strain under which she has been suffering. She stifled her tears with an effort, then bravely glanced at her son and said:

"I heard Mr. Dennis say that William and I called at his house after his daughter's death and that I asked him to stop the investigation." In a voice quivering with emotion she then said: "That was not true."

Mrs. Letherman said her discussion with the father of the girl concerned only the publicity resulting from her death. Mrs. Letherman then took a seat by the side of her son at the counsel table.

The stern-faced father, testifying as the last of the defense witnesses, said that Mrs. Letherman had told him she "saw no reason for an investigation," Mr. Dennis followed Mrs. Letherman to the stand. She had testified about four minutes before the crowded courtroom.

Judge Dom ruled against the desire of prosecutor Eicher to place J. A. Ogilvie on the stand to tell about an alleged visit of Viola and William to a Pittsburgh apartment house. Much of yesterday's testimony was by physicians.

In London there are at present 210,000 Jews.

Last evening the girls of the Canter Bridge club were pleasingly received in the home of Mrs. Eunice Johnston, Sumner avenue, when she entertained informally at their usual social session.

Preceding the card contest, the evening's diversion, a period of friendly conversation was enjoyed, with all assembled about the cozy open fireplace. Following play, lovely prizes were awarded to Jean Glenn and Mrs. C. E. Kennedy for holding honor scores. The former, with Mrs. E. J. Longarce, later assisted the hostess in serving a delicious lunch, and this feature of the evening was most delightful in a setting of St. Patricks appointments. The menu was served by candlelight.

The next meeting of club members will be with Jean Glenn, Richelieu avenue, Thursday, March 28.

Young Matrons Club.

Mrs. Elsie Orlando was a charming hostess last evening when she entertained members of the Young Matrons club in her home on West Wabash avenue.

SOROSIS PARTY IS MARCH FESTIVITY

One of the delightful March festivities was the Sorosis annual winter party for husbands and other guests Friday evening in the First U. P. church, on Clenmore boulevard.

At long tables arranged U shape in the big assembly room, covers were placed for 36. Decorations were most attractive, consisting of groups of seven yellow candles, a tall one in the center with smaller ones on either side, all in green crystal and silver holders. Asparagus ferns beautified the length of the tables and at the places, there were tiny yellow tulip baskets holding candy tidbits. The diner menu was excellent.

For the evening's entertainment, Miss Betty Glover and Jimmy Smith, both well known for their dramatic ability, put on a short sketch entitled "Um Pa", which was hilariously funny. They followed up with two comical readings.

A program of stunts was in charge of Mrs. Roy A. Long who had a variety of clever games arranged for further amusement. The party was a distinct success and much credit reflects upon the committee of which Mrs. Roy M. Jamison was chairman. She was assisted by Mrs. Carmi Glover, Mrs. Thomas Lindsey, Mrs. C. G. Long, Mrs. Roy A. Long, Mrs. J. B. Love and Mrs. W. H. Dunlap, Sr.

Old Hat Party

Ripples of merriment were caused by the numerous guessing contests and games conducted throughout the "Old Hat Party" of the Bee Hive Club, Friday evening, at the home of Mrs. Emma McKissick, on Neshannock avenue.

Each member appeared at the scene of the party wearing hats of outlandish styles and of questionable origin, some gay in color, others a bit tragic.

The games got underway immediately and included everything from slogan hunting to questionnaires on ancient history. To Mrs. Aria Woods Mrs. Sara Campbell, Mrs. Margaret Clark, Mrs. Anna MacDonald, Mrs. Margaret Sherbine, Mrs. Nell Knox, Mrs. Erma Blues, Mrs. Florence Miller and Mrs. Rachel Reynolds went the prizes.

BIRTHDAY PARTY OF STEPHENSON CIRCLE

Certainly one of the most unusual party settings of the season was that arranged for the Stephenson Circle of the First M. E. church Friday night at the residence of Mrs. John Butler, Fairfield avenue.

It was a birthday party honoring the birthdays of all the members and this fact was remembered in the decorations of all twelve tables where the members were seated. Each table represented a different month of the year; the January table was covered with "snow" and "ice", the July table was colorfully patriotic, while September was decorated with such seasonable objects as pencils and school books. It was all most clever and added to the merriment and enjoyment of the occasion.

The affair was a financial as well as a social success, for each member contributed to the circle a penny for each year birthday anniversay she had ever had.

A pleasant feature was the program of several piano numbers given by Miss Camilla Smith. Several skits were given by group leaders and toasts were offered, during the evening. Mrs. Butler served dainty and delicious refreshments.

The society will have a meeting in April at the church.

SIXTY GUESTS AT DINNER IN CHURCH

Heaton, Mr. and Mrs. John Owens and Miss Winifred James, as special guests. There were 60 persons present in all and a very delicious dinner was served at the pretty, St. Patrick's tables.

The after-dinner attractions included a sketch by the dramatic class of the senior high school, entitled, "The Breakfast," in which Jean Classelman, Phil Greer, Viola Dufford, Bob Brown, Helen Bauman and Mildred Carlson, took part. The student director was Joe Fisher.

David S. Williams, teacher of the class, offered a vocal solo, entitled "A Song in My Heart," with Garth Edmundson accompanying on the piano.

WEDDING AT QUAINT NEW YORK CHURCH

"The Little Church Around the Corner" in quaint New York, was the romantic setting for the wedding this morning at 11 o'clock of Miss Dorothy Lee, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lee of Broadway, Youngstown, Ohio, and New Castle, when she became the bride of William Prince of Jersey City, N. J., the son of Mrs. Edward Burnett, Market street, Youngstown, Ohio, an event of interest to many in New Castle, as well as Ohioans.

Before the altar in the historical church a Methodist minister pronounced the marriage vows, using the single ring service.

The bride was stunning in a chic brown suede cloth suit, fashioned with a jaunty short jacket made with a full peplum attached at the high waistline, and trimmed in kolinski fur. With it she wore a close fitted tricorn hat with butterfly veil and a shoulder bouquet of beige tinted Cyndinium orchids.

Making the occasion of further interest to New Castleites is the fact Miss Kathryn Hodge of Wallace avenue was chosen as maid of honor, and Lew Cartwright, also of this city, served Mr. Prince as best man.

Miss Hodge was attractive in a brown silk crepe frock, made with lace top and a smart jacket fashioned with quilted lapels. She selected a large beige off-the-face hat and other accessories of the same shade, completed her ensemble. Her shoulder corsage was also of tinted Cyndinium orchids.

A wedding breakfast of beautiful appointments supplemented the ceremony and was served to the bridal party at the Hotel New Yorker. Following, the bride and groom departed on an extensive boat cruise.

The bride, a graduate of the Youngstown Rayen high school with the class of '28, has been affiliated with the Pennsylvania Power Company for the past five years, the latter three being located in New Castle with the local offices.

The groom, a graduate of Warren high school at Warren, O., holds a responsible position with the Kingston Electrical Company at Jersey City, N. J.

Since the announcement of the couple's engagement the bride has been feted at a number of lovely parties and showers. Among those who entertained were included Miss Hodge, Mrs. Charles Whalen of North Jefferson street, her girl associates of the Pennsylvania Power, held in the home of Mrs. L. C. Hughes on Sheridan avenue, and several events given by members of her local bridge clubs, all of New Castle; Mrs. Carl Smith of Ford avenue, and the bride's mother, Mrs. Lee, both of Youngstown, O., the latter who entertained just this week at a large informal tea and reception at her Broadway avenue home.

A magnificent collection of beautiful gifts have been received by Mrs. Prince, testifying to her popularity and the high esteem in which she is held.

The bride presented Miss Hodge with an exquisite jeweled combination make-up compact, and Mr. Cartwright also received a gift of jewelry from the groom.

Upon returning from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Prince will take up residence in the Edith apartments, No. 18, located at 251 Lafayette street, Grantwood, N. J. Their many friends in New Castle and vicinity join in extending them congratulations and much happiness.

Party At Waddingtons

A birthday party of pretty appointments, was held yesterday in honor of Marion Waddington, at her home on Albert street, which was in celebration of her tenth anniversary.

Eighteen little girls participated, and the hours were enlivened with games and various contest. Prizes were awarded the winners at the close of the afternoon.

The table where an attractive menu was served, was appointed in tones of green and white, Green tapers flanked the large birthday cake, and miniature corsages marked each guests place. The honored guests' mother, Mrs. Waddington was assisted by Jean Waddington and Louise Fink, with the serving.

G. G. G. Club

The Misses Ethel and Frances Wagner of Boston avenue, entertained the G. G. G. Club members Friday evening, at cards. Prizes were captured by Eleanor Lowery and Mrs. Ed Donnelly at conclusion of play. After a short period of chat, the hostesses assisted by their mother, Mrs. E. J. Wagner, served a dainty menu of refreshments. The seasons tones suggesting St. Patricks Day, were used in the appointments.

In two weeks, Mrs. Vera Cox of the Edenburg road, will entertain.

Earnest Workers Class.

Earnest Workers of the Bethany Lutheran church assembled in the home of Mrs. Thomas Ridley, Lutton street, and passed an evening of games and stunts, Friday, with Mrs. Harry Ruby as the associate hostess.

Winners of the games were Mrs. Alec Wrobel and Mrs. Sherman Kitson. Two special guests were present, Alice Ridley and Betty Ruby.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. A. T. Jennings, Garfield avenue, in one month.

Jolly Eight

Miss Johanna Bodendorfer of Bell avenue, entertained the Jolly Eight club members at her home Thursday evening. Cards and chat were the diversions, favors for 500 were won by Henry Bodendorfer, Martha Sanders and James DiMuccio. A buffett lunch followed.

March 14, Miss Sanders of Sampson street, will entertain the club at her home.

BENNETT CLASS HAS ANNIVERSARY PARTY

The Bennett Bible class of the First Christian church, held an interesting event in the church social rooms on Friday evening, when they entertained at a party in observance of their first anniversary, in conjunction with their regular session.

Following routine business, the social committee took charge, and soon had the guests participating in a program of games, stunts and contests. The grand prize for the evening, was awarded to Mrs. John Reynolds. When this had been concluded, the guests were conducted into the dining room, where a beautifully appointed table awaited them. A delicious lunch was served, and presiding as hosts, were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Sadler, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Horton. Places marked for thirty-five or more.

The next meeting of members will take place Friday, April 2, in the church.

At Deuel Home.

DINNER AND SHOWER FOR LOIS WILLIAMSON

For the pleasure of Miss Lois E. Williamson of Pittsburgh, fiancee of John Mealy Robinson, also of Pittsburgh, who is spending the week-end in town, Mrs. George R. Deuel, Miss Bertha Dodds of East Wallace avenue and Miss Helen McConaghy of Norwood avenue entertained a coterie of friends Friday evening in one of the downtown tearooms.

Fifteen guests enjoyed an excellent dinner menu at 7 o'clock and later when they went upstairs for an informal evening, Miss Williamson found attractively wrapped packages on the card table which revealed useful kitchen accessories. The girls spent a delightful evening chatting and hearing about the wedding plans of the bride-elect, who has chosen April 5 for the ceremony.

This evening Miss Williamson will be complimented with a small dinner to be given in The Castleton by Miss Grace Dodson of Wallace avenue.

THAT FEELING OF UTTER HELPLESSNESS

As the current year gets underway, the belief grows that times are better. Recovery may not be just around the corner—but it may be within sight.

One of the ways to expedite recovery—a way that is in the power of every citizen—is to reduce fire loss. Fire is the great destroyer. It is the enemy of all the things that make prosperity, employment, industrial activity, business expansion, home and farm development. The dollars that go up in smoke are lost beyond recovery—they represent a complete and utter waste of financial lifeblood.

A fire that destroys a factory may cause a direct loss of but $10,000—and an indirect loss of ten times that amount, in lost jobs, destroyed purchasing power, higher taxes for the community. Cases are on record where a single disastrous fire has brought progress in a flourishing town to a definite halt—and set it back a generation in its development. Insurance may take care of the direct loss—but nothing can compensate for the indirect waste.

Resolve to do your part in preventing fire. Inspect your property and correct hazards. If you are building or rebuilding, make certain that an up-to-date, approved building code is followed undeviatingly. It will take little of your time and the cost will be small—and it will mean dollars in your pocket.

One never experiences a greater feeling of helplessness than when he sees his home or place of business being consumed by flames and no adequate fire protection available to save his property and possibly the lives of loved ones.

All persons should cheerfully join in fire prevention and fire protection measures.

OUR GRAIN PROBLEMS

One of the developments threatened in the United States, affecting our farmers, comes with the prospect of a bumper corn crop in Argentina.

It is said this will be one of the largest crops the southern republic has ever raised. This of course carries a serious threat to the corn program in the United States.

It will be remembered that a few months ago our farmers were "hired" to plow under every third row of corn on the theory that this would increase the price. Curtailment and drought have brought about a short crop and higher prices in our country.

This, of course is of temporary benefit to those who have corn to sell. Under present conditions it is a benefit made possible to them in some part by the fact that there is a tariff on the importation of corn in the United States.

With a short crop in the United States and a bumper crop in Argentina it is easy to see that, without a protective tariff, the South Americans could flood the United States with their corn and take away any benefit that the farmer might possibly gain through higher prices here.

Indeed some crop experts believe that corn will be so cheap in Argentina that shippers can afford to pay the American tariff and still ship their corn into the United States, underselling the American farmer and taking part of his market.

So far as the world market is concerned, American farmers seem pretty well out of it. With the short crop and high costs for himself certainly the American farmer will be unable to compete in the world market with a cheap and bountiful Argentine crop. What is true of corn is of course true of wheat and other grains and will be true also of cotton if our farm experts continue to encourage foreign cotton raising by promising higher prices and shorter crops here.

The American grain experts are already beginning to cast dubious eyes toward Canada. It is predicted now in several quarters that the time will soon come when Canada can ship its wheat into the United States and sell it, in spite of the American tariff. This of course will be done because of the difference in cost of the United States and Canada, due in part to our wheat curtailment program.

In fact it is reported that some Canadian wheat shipped to the United States has already been released for sale here. It is a well known fact that large quantities of rye from foreign countries have been sold in the United States during the past year at the very time that American farmers were being urged to raise less grain.

Isn't it about time that our agriculture legislation received a thorough currying?

THE GREAT AMERICAN TEXTBOOK

An interesting fact is brought to light by questionnaires sent out by the National Recreational association. It is revealed that of the ten things which those who have spare time on their hands prefer to do, reading of newspapers and magazines heads the list. There is no more profitable recreation than reading. It soothes frayed nerves, it chases worry, and, above all, it keeps the reader in close touch with current events.

One of the remarkable developments of the age is the advance made in methods of disseminating news of the world. The modern newspaper does not know the meaning of distance. It brings occurrences from local and far distant points to the very doorstep of the reader. The American citizen today has a more thorough comprehension of affairs, governmental, educational, scientific and, of course, criminal, than at any time since this country was founded.

The American newspaper might be called a textbook which is issued daily.

France at last has taken official cognizance of the American depression. Hotel rates are down 25 per cent.

A fox at Groton, Mass., turned and chased the hounds, demonstrating that that is a game at which two can play.

An Omaha baker has to pay $2,000 because a customer bit on a nail in a cherry pie, which means that it will be a long time before this baker's pies are restored to a paying basis.

Former Mayor Walker comments that he is "stoney broke", that he has been offered "everything but a subway" to come back to New York, and that he is no longer a "good-time Charlie'. Still a wise-cracking Jimmy, though.

A PAIR OF SHEARS

I hold a pair of shears in my hand. Idly I work them, thinking of something else as I do so, and as I cut a piece of paper, it seems to me suddenly as though I had never looked at a pair of shears before.

This pair of shears is not a very good pair. The blades are dull. The points are broken...But they do the work I ask of them and I suppose that is sufficient...And at the moment I hold these shears and think about them, they seem a marvelous invention to me. Just two pieces of mental, fixed together at one end by a screw, the blades sharpened, an arrangement at the lower end for my fingers and my thumb to grip... That's all there is to the common machine, and yet long ago some man dreamed over this device and was triumphant and godlike when he invented this cutting tool. He had thought of a way to use natural laws simply, easily, conveniently. A wonderful invention, he thought then; as I think now.

A man's life should be like this pair of shears. As well arranged. As balanced. With a cutting edge... One blade his abilities, the other his desires. One blade his needs, the other his code. One his heredity, the other his experience. One his dreams, the other his deeds. One blade his mind, the other his emotions...And back here where a man grips firmly, should be force, should be faith, confidence, philosophy and a measure of certainty.

Thus a man cuts his way through the tough material of existence, dividing the useless from what he would save. Thus he cuts through doubt and bewilderment, despair and illusion. With the iron shears of truth he may, if he be wise enough, shape a good life for himself. Or, cutting awkwardly and blindly, spoil the rich product of the weaver.

I would that my shears were sharper! I would that my hand were steadier, my eye were truer, my vision were fairer!

Instead of ridiculing the optimist, it might be well for you to adopt some of the enthusiasm and self-confidence of that happy one.

There is need for optimism these days, just to live and keep well.

Not blind optimism, but a real faith accompanied by helpful action.

There are too many "word of mouth" optimists and not enough people who back their faith with deed.

The prolific talker of success is often weak and inefficient in action.

Recuperation, whether it be from illness or economic distress, requires strenuous effort to effect a cure.

A spirit of perseverance is necessary to work out successful recovery.

Although optimists are called "builders of air castles" not all of them are visionary and unreliable.

The true optimist has vision—and without vision nothing can be attained.

A FARMER DISCUSSES CITY LIFE

'Twas in a country barber shop and
I was in the chair,
Half dozing while the barber ran
the clippers round my hair.
When two old fellows gossiping an hour or two away
Attracted by attention and I heard
one ancient say
To his whimsical companion in a very earnest tone:
"Did you ever spend a winter in the city all alone?"

"You haven't. Well, then, listen for a minute now to me
You've no idea how dreadful and how lonesome life can be.
Out here we know each other and
we pass the time of day
And we say good night and morning
in a cheerful sort of way.
But once you're in the city you can come and go for weeks
Among a million people but nobody ever speaks.

"They sent me to a rooming house
and it was nice and clean
But no one asked we where I'd been or asked me what I'd seen.
They knew that I was working and
they knew I paid my bills,
But they were all too busy seeing shows and chasing thrills.
And 'tending to their own affairs to even notice me
Or wonder was I well or not or share my company.

"A stranger in the city can a lonely
stranger stay,
For city folks don't neighbor in the good old-fashioned way.
They couldn't hire me back again"
With this he closed his tale:
"I'd rather spend the winter in the county court-house jail."
And though I chuckled hearing him,
I felt ashamed that he
Had such a harsh opinion of my city
and of me.

Bible Thought For Today

For where envying and strife is, there is confusion and every evil work.—James 3:16.

The sad part is that times are improving in spite of the professors and people will think their queer theories did it.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:00. Sun rises tomorrow 6:21.

THEY'RE RARE AT THAT

Boy: What's leisure daddy?

Father: Leisure, my son, is the two minutes' rest a man gets while his wife is hunting up something else for him to do.

When John Salver, 87 a hitch-hiker, suffering from a cold, was taken to a hospital at Latrobe, Pa., it was found that he was wearing three suits of underwear, six shirts, several pairs of trousers and many layers of grime. With all that wardrobe on it's a mystery how he managed to catch cold.

Press reports tell of a big lion in the Los Angeles zoo, whose life was saved by a blood transfusion. We're puzzled to know who furnished the blood. It must have been one of those he-men we hear about but so seldom see.

America wasn't built by men who began each job by saying: "Now where can I get some help."

We never expected to live to see the day when sand, gravel and even common clay would be taxed, but they've got a bill in the legislature now to do that very thing. Pretty soon they'll be taxing the farmer for all the loose stones in his fields, and the bushes that grow in his fence rows. Even a tax on one's patience wouldn't be surprising.

A stranger in town strolled over to the local baseball field to see a game that was going on. Turning to a boy, he inquired: "What's the score?"

The boy answered: "Forty-four to nothing, and none out.'

"It don't look any too good," said the boy. "Our side ain't had a chance to bat yet."

But let the government buy all unused land and offer it free to homesteaders and you'll see 'em go back to the farm.

MORE LISTENERS NEEDED

An old negro man, who is of the reliable kind, appeared one morning for work. His head was all bandaged and he could hardly see. The employer asked him what was the trouble.

"Nothing', Boss—not a thing; I'se all right," he replied.

"But," insisted the employer, "you are all bandaged up; what kind of a fight have you been in?"

"Ain't been no fight," said Mose; "I just talked when I ought to been list'nin,."

How nice to be rich, so you can have a country estate with the quiet and privacy that a poor hill-billy enjoys.

Correct this sentence: "I cannot marry you," said she, "for my parents do not approve of you."

Moving people from hard-up regions isn't so difficult. The hard part will be to find room for them on Easy Street.

We see the cleverness of it now. The idea is to help the farmer and make food so scarce and high that starving city people will go back to the plow.

As we understand Dr. Townsend's testimony, the scheme wouldn't work but wouldn't it be a dandy if it did?

If you'd like to enjoy some of the experiences of your forefathers just drive off a concrete road on to one of the old fashioned dirt roads. We know a man who did this the other day and it cost him a five spot to have a farmer haul him out of the mud. It's not so many years ago that there were no concrete roads into New Castle. Who says, "them was the good old days?"

MARCH 12 BABIES

As has been his custom for many years, the Hints and Dints Man will give five dollars (currency instead of gold) to every baby born in Lawrence county on his birthday, March 12, next. That don't mean kids born on previous March 12ths. Every year we get letters asking for the $5 from birds a hundred years old and less. All claims for the five dollars must be made by doctor's certificate or other reliable evidence before April 1, 1935. Twins get three times as much. Triplets $25. If anyone wants to pull one of those five-baby stunts we will try and make it worth while for them. Canada seems to be the only place where those things happen. We are prepared to guarantee the $5 to every baby born on March 12 in spite of the depression. The money was made under a Republican administration.

Many a girl who says she could have married anyone she pleased, has never pleased anybody to that extent.

HELP

'We've had the best time playing postman," exclaimed the small hopeful of the family. "We gave a letter to every lady in the block.'

"But where did you get the letters, dear?"

"Oh we found 'em in your trunk in the attic, all tied up with a blue ribbon."

Fishing and angling for a husband, both take skill and patience, and if a girl makes a good catch the first time, you can put it down as beginner's luck.

It's dollars to doughnuts the guy who crashes the red light is never in any real rush to get where he is going.

A New Castle realty agent was showing a house to a prospective renter the other day and it happened to be raining. The prospect asked if the rain always came through the roof like that. And the agent, true to his calling replied, "Oh, no: only when its rains."

An east side man who has been suffering from frazzled nerves, went to his family physician for a diagnosis. After looking him over, pulling out his tongue and thumping his back the doctor said: "You must quit thinking about yourself, bury yourself in your work." To which the sufferer replied "Great Scott, doctor, I'm a concrete mixer."

It isn't the demagogue that matters, but the fact that America contains enough morons to give him power.

It is easy to recognize a senator. Just say "Huey!" and observe how scared he looks.

But senators may not be afraid of Huey. You know how dignified grown-ups humor a naughty boy to avoid an embarrassing scene in public.

Americanism: Selfish and foolish groups working hard to control the nation; others doing nothing and helplessly hoping for the best.

The funny part is that we still trust the wisdom of pundits who said Mussolini, Stalin and Hitler wouldn't last.

The reformers seem to have no definite policy, except that a $50,000,000 experiment won't break us even if it doesn't work.

A wild goose, on its way north from Florida dropped off here yesterday long enough to say that business is booming down that way. Hotels are filled up and folks who drove down and who camp in the old bus are living on oranges and climate. Babson, the great Boston financier is among those present. He's writing letters, telling about the pickup in business. But wait till he and the other nomads get back home and they'll waken up.

Sometimes a pessimist is a man who backed an optimist and it didn't turn out right.

Pennsylvania imports 25,000 horses a year from the middle west to take care of the demands on its farms. Looks like some of the farmers are overlooking a bet and could raise horses better than some other product to try and raise the mortgage.

Racial equality is a local issue. The community that believes in it is probably right.

LACKED THE MONEY

"John, do you love your sister?" "Yes, pa." "Well, show me how you love her." The boy stood still, not knowing what to do. "John, how do I express my love for your mother?" "Oh, you give her some money, but I ain't got any."

The Girl Next Door says that many a batchelor gets married through a miss understanding.

Now that kiss-proof lipstick has been invented, all we need to find is a kiss-proof girl to apply it to.

Forgiveness: Forgetting the thing because it has quit hurting, and making a virtue of a bad memory.

Sarcasm is what you remember you should have said after the other fellow has had the best of the argument and has gone home.

If the man who "incites to riot" should be jailed, why not, in case of a wreck, jail the man who sold the liquor?

Most people are flattered to be told that they have a sense of humor. We don't agree with them—after seeing the husbands that some of them have.

Even a bull can't stay in a china shop forever, but Huey Long seems to be able to retain his place in Uncle Sam's senate. About all we hear from Washington these days, is Huey's attack of somebody, or somebody's attack on him. This may be allright if we're paying our senators for vaudeville, instead of attending to the nation's business.

You see, by developing a lot of new water power, we can save enough to support the jobless coal miners.

Americanism: Jailing the poor who protect a bandit to get a share of his takings; voting for the candidate who promises to snitch public money for us.

When some people get into trouble their first thought seems to be to rush to the newspapers to try to get it kept out. They would have the newspaper bear the criticism for keeping it out, instead of themselves for their act. The best way to avoid unpleasant publicity is to follow the straight and narrow path and do nothing to be ashamed of. Fear of publicity does more to prevent crime than jails or penitentiaries

Yes, children, your parents also began married life with nothing. But they were used to it.

Long engagements are risky. The groom is liable to get knocked off by a car after the trousseau is bought.

But there is still a demand for a car that won't scrape the bumps, crack your head or do more than 50.

Pre-radio days had advantages. Cranks couldn't reach the millions who never read anything.

Bridegroom: A kind of tool used to obtain a sweet ring, a smell wedding and a darling little apartment.

What's the use? All you get out of success its time to loaf and fish, and the poorest can do that.

Unrest In Japan.
States Slack Responsibility.
Ohio Relief Controversy.

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th street

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—Not much is heard of terroristic fascism in Japan—but that is because those who write or speak of it in Japan seldom live to finish the tale.

Evidently there is a strong undercurrent of unrest in the Nipponese empire. Thus the military clique that runs the nation suppresses even mention of any untoward condition as "unpatriotic."

Now a bill has been introduced into the Japanese house of representatives providing the death sentence for organizers and leaders of any political organization which seeks to change the form of government. It is said to be aimed at Communists, but it can be used equally by a mere twist of accusation against any party opposing the party in power.

The death penalty merely legalizes the "patriotic assassinations" that now take place when a man rises to oppose the clique in power.

How patriotic the patriotic organizations are which perform the assassinations may be judged by this incident: One of the leading professors in Japan, an authority on constitutional law, had said in one of his books, that the constitution derived from the people. A mob of one of the patriotic societies descended upon the home of the professor, accused him of lese majesty and demanded that he change the passage to read that all power was derived from the emperor as a divinity. The alternative to the professor was death.

How tense the situation is may be gleaned from this excerpt from a speech that Masazumi Ando dared to make in the Japanese parliament:

"The press is unable to express its view freely owing to the fear of terroristic violence. Even the members of parliament who criticize the militarists on the floor of the diet are charged with harboring traitorous thoughts and are placed on the army's blacklist. . . . Many of these so-called patriots are only bogus patriots."

RELIEF AND SECURITY

The federal government is learning that forcing the states to do their share in relief is becoming harder and harder. That augers ill for the administration's social security plan. The states there, too, would be called upon to bear part of the burden.

The fact of the matter is, the federal government may have to become all in all as the crisis increases. State's rights are fading.

The entire matter was brought to an issue by Governor Martin L. Davey of Ohio, an anti-New Deal Democrat, who got into office via a political machine. Davey, after trying to replace the Ohio relief machinery with organization politicians, tossed the whole Ohio relief business into the lap of the federal government.

But the federal government tossed it back with a sharp retort—with good reason, too. For Ohio has nearly a million persons on relief rolls, and the state's share is $2,000,000 a month.

Federal Relief Director Harry Hopkins was scathing in his retort. Here are a few bristling statements:

"It apparently has taken the governor 30 days to find out that there are no political assets in handling relief in Ohio, so he decides he will unload the whole business on our doorstep.

"He bitterly complains the Democrats all over the state are being discriminated against (in relief jobs, not in the receipt of relief).

"What kind of Democrats? Who have been barred, Davey Democrats? Appointments in Ohio have been made on a basis of merit."

SATURDAY, MARCH 9

March 9, 1758—Franz Joseph Gall was born in Baden, destined to become an anatomist, physiologist and the founder of phrenology. He early formed the generalization that in the human subject a powerful memory is invariably associated with prominent eyes.

His doctrines were interdicted by the government as being dangerous to religion.

March 9, 1762—Jean Calas, 64-year-old French merchant, was broken on the wheel by judicial sentence, because his son committed suicide! The father was blamed for the boy's act because the younger Calas had been made despondent by parental objections to certain of his desires.

March 9, 1862—The so-called battle of the Monitor and Merrimac was fought.

Actually, it was the battle of the Monitor and the Virginia, for the Merrimac had been given a new name when her half-burned hulk was raised and rebuilt as an ironclad warship.

No life was lost in this battle that made the navies of the world obsolete. And when the battle was fought, the Monitor didn't belong to the U. S. Navy, it was the property of its builder, John Ericsson, Swede!

This Date's Yesterdays, March 10, 222 A. D.—Various Avitus Bassianus, Emperor Elagabalus of Rome, aged 17, was beheaded by the Pretorian Guard.

Thus ended a 3-year-reign that is the most infamous in history. His childish cruelties are indescribable, his boyish whims and pranks classic.

March 10, 1848—The treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo was ratified by the U. S. Senate, thereby terminating the U. S.-Mexican war.

The treaty brought us our third largest accession of territory, yet nobody knew then how much it was! For after Mexico had acceded Upper California, Nevada, parts of New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona and Texas, it took five years and the Gadsden purchase to straighten out the boundary lines.

March 10, 1916—The United States was seething with indignation and expecting to go to war. Not with Germany, but with Mexico.

Francisco Villa, with 1500 followers, attacked Columbus, N. M., where the 13th U. S. Cavalry was stationed, and killed eight troopers and nine civilians. He was pursued 15 miles and 100 of his men killed.

That the first regular broadcasting station went on the air at Pittsburgh, in 1920, as is often claimed.

We've already pointed out here that Dr. Lee DeForest broadcast regular programs, including opera from the Metropolitan, from his High Bridge station in New York, in 1916. O. C. Munson, San Jose, Calif., forwards information that Dr. Charles D. Harrold began broadcasting regular musical programs in 1909, established two-way communication with the San Francisco in 1912 and aired programs from the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915. We'll see how long it is before KDKA again claims that it is the world's oldest broadcasting station.

A MORTGAGE, BOSS

Speaking of mortgage foreclosures Uncle Joe, an old negro, had just paid the last installment on a small farm.

"I'll get your deed made out right away, Uncle Joe" the agent said.

"If it's all the same to you, boss, I'd much rather have a mortgage," the old darky replied.

Somewhat surprised the agent suggested perhaps Uncle Joe didn't know the difference between a mortgage and a deed.

"Well, maybe not," said the old man reminiscently, "but I owned a small farm once to which I had a deed, and de Fust National Bank had a mortgage, and de bank got mah farm."

THE EYES HAVE IT

The presiding officer was trying to hold the attention of his audience when a beautiful young thing strolled nonchalantly down the center aisle. All eyes followed the Mae West swing of her hips until the exasperated chairman raised his voice:

"Gentlemen, there's a motion before the house!"

And a voice from the rear replied: "You're telling us?"

Rev. Perry R. Rood, Of Tennessee, To Conduct Meetings In Nazarene Church

Rev. Rood is a man of strong southern personality, and a mighty preacher of the old time Gospel which saves men from their sins. His success in the evangelistic field has been quite phenomenal for several years. A special song service will precede each meeting, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Lester G. Fury.

The Nazarene church, located at 27 West Falls street, has recently been dressed up with a fine new coat of paint, through the cooperation of its friends.

Annual Reports To Be Given April 10

The reports will be presented to the church in mimeographed form.

The fiscal year closes on March 31. The reports cover the period from April 1, 1934 to March 31, 1935.

New Pastor Here On Palm Sunday

Rev. Dr. John J. McIlvaine To Take Up Pastorate Probably April 14

SELECTING HOME TO OCCUPY AS PARSONAGE

Rev. Dr. John J. McIlvaine

While it is probably too early for conclusive opinions concerning Rev. Dr. John J. McIlvaine, the pastor-elect of the First Presbyterian church, it is increasingly evident that the church has selected an outstanding young spiritual leader to fill the pulpit.

In years he is a young man, barely 40 but his experiences have been so well rounded that he comes to the church here well prepared. The newspapers of Indiana county, where he has served for the past six years are unanimous in voicing regret at his departure, and speakly highly of his work as pastor of the First United Presbyterian church of Indian.

Governor's Church

The First United Presbyterian church of Indian was known as the "Governor's Church" for the four years from 1927 to 1931, for it was here that Governor John S. Fisher worshipped. Dr. McIlvaine was the pastor of the church during two years of Governor Fisher's incumbency.

During the war Dr. McIlvaine was an aviator in the United States air forces and he has been an active member of the American Legion in the cities where he has preached since being ordained. Among ex-service men here he will be welcomed as another service man. There are two such ministers here now, Rev. D. L. Ferguson of the Highland U. P. church and Rev. C. Warren Johnstone of the Central Christian church. None of the three served as chaplains during the war, all of them were active fighting men.

Dr. McIlvaine is selecting his home here it is reported, and will probably occupy the Bradford house, Leasure avenue and Mercer street. Final action upon his resignation from the Indiana church will be taken by the congregation there March 13 at a congregational meeting. It is probable that the first Sunday Dr. McIlvaine will occupy his pulpit here will be Palm Sunday, April 14.

The church he is leaving is an historic old one and since 1818 has had but seven pastors including Dr. McIlvaine.

QUESTION BOX WILL FEATURE

Will Be Part Of Sunday Evening Service At St. Mary's During Lent

An interesting feature of the Sunday evening services at St. Mary's during the season of Lent will be the Question Box. In the vestibule of the church a box is placed and into it non-catholics, as well as Catholics, are cordially invited to deposit questions relative to Catholic doctrine and practice. These questions are answered on Sunday evenings at 7:45. The answering of questions will supplant the sermon during the Lenten period.

On Tuesday evenings at 7:45 there will be the regular devotions in Honor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help together with a sermon and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

On Friday at 7:45 there will be the Way of the Cross, meditations on the sorrowful journey made by Jesus Christ to Calvary, which will be followed by Benediction. There will not be a sermon on Friday evenings.

Dr. W. A. Jones To Speak Here Sunday

On Sunday morning Dr. W. A. Jones, of Pittsburgh, will preach in the First Presbyterian church. Dr. Jones is Stated Clerk of the Pittsburgh Presbytery and was formerly assistant to Dr. Clarence Macartney, at the First Presbyterian church of that city. The service promises to be of unusual interest.

UMBERTO PRIMO

Members of the Umberto Primo society will hold their regular monthly meeting on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in the King Humbert hall, Division street.

The average individual has approximately one and one-half square meters of skin. This is approximately 3,500 square inches.

Trinity Church Holy Communion Sunday Morning

Holy Communion Will Be Conducted At Local Trinity Church

The National Council of the Episcopal church with headquarters in New York City asks all communicants of Trinity church to receive the Holy Communion either at 7:30 a. m., or at 11:00 a. m., tomorrow. This is in common with all of the Episcopal churches throughout the land. The First Sunday in Lent has been made "Forward Movement Church Wide Corporate Communion Sunday." In the past there have been such observances for women and girls under the leadership of the Woman's Auxiliary; and for men and boys under the direction of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew; but this is the first time that the whole communicant strength of the church has been asked to mobilize in its history, or since 1607 in this country.

As befitting an occasion with such great spiritual possibilities, when the 1,363,414 communicants are asked to participate in the greatest service known to man, and to receive the greatest benefit man may have on this earth, the Rev. Philip C. Pearson has chosen a spiritual subject for his sermon, "Echoes from the Heart of God." A special program of music will be rendered by the Senior choir with Paul B. Patterson at the organ.

Rev. Edward Balph, From India Will Speak At Highland

Returned Missionary, Native Of New Castle, Will Tell Of Experiences

Rev. Edward Balph, who was recently returned with his family to this country after six and a half years of missionary work in Kashmir state in Northern India, will speak at the Sunday morning service, 11 o'clock, in the Highland United Presbyterian church.

Rev. and Mrs. Balph were stationed in Poonch, a section of Northern India practically untouched before by missionaries. Their work has been largely with Mohammedans, and Rev. Balph, in his Sunday morning address, will relate many interesting experiences which have been his while endeavoring to preach to these people.

The Balphs have spent 14½ years in India. Rev. Balph is the son of Mrs. Mary Balph, of Park avenue; for many years before going as a missionary he was a member of the Highland congregation.

Church To Take In Probationers

Large Class Will Be Admitted At Croton Avenue M. E. Church Sunday Morning

One of the features of Sunday's services at the Croton Avenue M. E church, where revival services have been in progress during the past week, will be the reception of a large class of probation members at the morning service.

The services have been increasing in interest and attendance. At last evening's service, when Sunday school night was observed, the auditorium was crowded to capacity.

The services will be concluded on March 17, with the reception of adult members.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. March 8—two arrests, on charges as follows: drunkenness 1 and violation of parking law 1.

Council has referred to Solicitor Robert White a complaint of residents in the vicinity of Cumberland avenue, who allege that a "goat farm" is being operated in that thoroughfare. According to a statement of one of the signers of the complaint, the odor is not to the residents' liking and they would like to have the goats banished.

There were 203 persons arrested by city police during February, according to the report of Mayor Charles B. Mayne, delivered to colleagues in council session yesterday. Sixty-five paid fines, amounting to $372.00. Ninety were arrested for drunkenness, which is a high mark for some time. Thirteen others faced a twin charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Only 56 were arrested for violating parking and traffic rules.

The first person arrested in the city for murder in more than a year was taken into custody last month. He was James Mitchell, alias "Thin Dime", whose wife died in the New Castle hospital. The prisoner was taken to a county jail cell and several days ago when it was believed his mind was affected, a commission examined the prisoner, but found him sane.

During February the city received from proprietors of dance halls and places in which liquor is sold and dancing permitted $151.00, representing the cost of one annual license ($15.00) and the rest was for each day on which dancing was held. The money paid in January is still in the city treasurer's office. No 90 per cent refund has been made, because the controller has held up the refund, believing it illegal to approve a refund.

Arrangements for the big automobile show which will take place in the Cathedral March 14, 15 and 16, are now virtually completed, and the members of the Lawrence County Auto Dealers Association, under whose auspices the show is being conducted, state that the event will be the biggest ever held in this city.

have you a lamp that annoys your guests ?

GET I. E. S. Tested Correct Lamps and be sure of GOOD LIGHT

The artist has slightly overdrawn the lighting situation here . . . but at that, it's the equivalent of the light in many homes. . . . But dim lights are not the only cause of annoying light. . . . Glaring lights are just as bad . . . and nothing spoils a good party quicker than poor or glaring lights. . . .

The new indirect study lamps and the beautiful portable semi-indirect floor lamps are scientifically built to give shadowless, glareless, ample light . . . whether it's a party or just a quiet evening of reading, these new lamps are efficient and economical. . . . Liquor Sales Average $1000 Per Day Here

Business at the state liquor store continues heavy it was indicated today by the volume of business which continues. The average sales per day amount to about $1000 with last week standing out as the best week the store has had since it was opened with perhaps the exception of Christmas week.

On orders from Harrisburg the force was cut by two men recently. The business is now handled by the remaining five men. Recent cuts in prices of the cheaper liquor have increased the sales in these brands. The demand for high priced bonded liquors remains about the same as it has.

Dear Quotarian:

At the usual dinner-meeting of Quota Monday evening at the Elks club, definite and final plans will be outlined for our charitable project. After dinner we are invited to a local dress shop for a display of spring fashions and style show. The proprietor will also tell us something of the ins of ready-to-wear merchandising and the laws governing such a business. This is in line with the plans of the program committee to give to us during the year, short talks on various Quota classifications.

Family Party At Cathedral Well Attended

Splendid Program Of Entertainment Is Provided By Social Committee

TWO PLAYS ARE GIVEN BY GROUP

One of the largest crowds of the year attended the family party for members of the Valley of New Castle Consistory in The Cathedral last evening. The entertainment committee had provided a program of exceptional merit for those attending, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Prior to the program in the auditorium, Johnny Phillips' orchestra provided music in the lobby which was much enjoyed.

The formal program in the auditorium consisted of two one-act plays, "Advice to the Lovelorn," and "Just 'til morning," presented by a group of high school students under the direction of Miss Clara M. Hartsuff.

The dramatis personae of these plays, which were exceptionally well presented, were as follows:

"Advice to the Lovelorn"

Mr. Jackson—James Dart.
Mrs. Jackson—Irene Saul.
Mary Jackson—Lillian Rumstay.
Minnie Belle Carter — Florence Snyder.
Miss Alice—Mary Brice.
Tom Jones—James Fox.
Chester Wade—James Hartland.
Tony—James Cardella.

"Just 'Till Morning"

Red McIntyre—James Dart.
Chick Dugan—James Fox.
A Guard—Everett Barker.
Singer—Avery Rigby.

Following this program, dancing was enjoyed in the ball room, with cards in the East Lodge room. During the intermission of the dancing program, a floor show was staged under the direction of Miss Nellie M. Brady, consisting of the following numbers:

Toe Dance—Katheryn Hartsuff.
Our Mae West—Pattie Bilzi.
Bit of the Bowery — Thomas Armand and Romie Appolitto.
The waltz you saved for me—Katheryn and Leone.
Our Sally Rand—Donna Paris.
Some Tapper—Leone.
Adagio—Katheryn and Andy.

The Scottish Rite social committee responsible for last evening's fine program was composed of S. Reed McGown, chairman; George F. Beitsch, W. Charles Sankey, and Albert B. Street.

Former Lawrence County Folks Make Good In Far West

Mrs. Bessie Gillespie And Brother Back On Visit To Princeton Relatives

Mrs. Bessie Gillespie, son Paul, and brother, Howard Allison, are here from the state of Washington to visit Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Allison of near Princeton. Both Mrs. Gillespie and Howard Allison are former Lawrence county residents, being children of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Allison of Princeton.

Mrs. Gillespie's husband is a southerner. After their marriage they decided to try their fortunes in the far west. A ranch was purchased in Washington, planted to fruit and is now in bearing. Some idea of the extent of the fruit orchard can be had from the statement of Mrs. Gillespie that fifteen thousand bushels of apples were picked this year, in addition to hundreds of bushels of peaches and pears. Fifty people are employed during the harvesting season.

Two car loads of apples have just been shipped to New York. Howard Allison accompanied the shipment and sold the apples at a good profit, notwithstanding that the freight from Washington to New York cost around 74 cents a bushel. Apples are selling at 80 cents a bushel in Washington.

Mrs. Gillespie came here on a train. Today she and her son and brother Howard are leaving for Detroit, where they will purchase a truck and an automobile, which they propose to drive through to Washington.

Colonial Unit At East Side School

Large Crowd Spends Afternoon At Thaddeus-Stevens School

Colonial days were re-enacted at the Thaddeus-Stevens school, Friday afternoon, when pupils of the 6B class cleverly presented a unit depicting inhabitants, customs and other interesting phases of colonial life back in 1621.

A large crowd of East Side residents filled a class room to watch the group of boys and girls present an educational as well as entertaining program. A pantomine, "The Story of Pocahontas", and an original playlet, 'Plymouth in 1621" pleased the audience tremendously.

Early in the aftrenoon, the gathering visited several classrooms filled with miniature implements, clothing, cabins, and stockade used in colonial days. The exhibitions were made by the pupils of the 6B class. A colonial candle mold and a cowbell, both 45 years of age, were also on display. These antiques are the property of Mrs. Matilda Parshall, of 711 Junior High street.

The following faculty members were in charge of the unit: Miss Leona Sankey, supervisor; Alice Grimes, Nancy Hilliard, Grace Scollard, Martha McClung and Louise Davies.

The program:

Song, "America the Beautiful"
Pantomine, "The Story of Pocahontas"
Accordion Solo—Emery Swogger
Original Play, Plymouth in 1621"
Oral Composition—Minerva Suciu
Oral Composition—Shirley Gaston
Poem—Betty Cope
Minuet—6B Girls
"Pageant of Industries", 1620-1935"
Song, 'Yankee Doodle"

Today

The Gypsy Warning.
Other Sooth-Saying.
Red Hair Rules Again.
Bombard The Acropolis.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

AN ENGLISH Gypsy has predicted the death of Chancellor Hitler before April 1, causing a number of Englishmen to take out speculative insurance policies on Hitler's life with Lloyds. Berlin authorities have naturally watched closely those that might be interested in making the Gypsy prediction come true.

An Associated Press dispatch from Copenhagen says three Americans named Sherman, Mink and Josephson, the last two Jews, and all said to be Communists, have been arrested in connection with alleged plotting against Chancellor Hitler's life.

It seems hard to get rid of modern dictators by assassination. The effort has been made against Mussolini, Stalin, Kemal Pasha, and in all cases without success.

LOOKING INTO the future, "far as human eye can see," some Americans, interested in present conditions and fairly well informed, report that they see numerous, interesting developments that make the Gypsy's predictions seem tame.

For instance, one able man, holding one of the highest official positions in the United States, although not the top place, says:

"You will see all the states of the Union abolished, all ruled by the central government, as forty-eight 'provinces' under governors, appointed by the President.

"There will be only one house of Congress, not two, no Senate necessary, a single chamber of three hundred and thirty members, ruling the forty-eight provinces.

"Instead of national, state, municipal and local courts, there will be only federal courts.

"That will simplify justice, make it quicker and cheaper, as in England. The kidnaping scare has proved that without the help of federal courts, other courts are powerless. We have outgrown our old pretense of separate independent states."

That would surprise Thomas Jefferson, who thought he was planning a long way ahead.

FURTHER, you are told just when "the march on Washington," an imitation of Mussolini's march on Rome, will take place, about half way through 1937. But, you are informed, it will not be a Mussolini program all the way through.

Some gentleman, expecting to be dictator, will march, followed by his hordes, gathered in various ways, chiefly by offering to rob anybody that has any money and divide it.

The leader of the march on Washington, to his surprise, will be routed by some alert, energetic young military person, and that military person will be the dictator, not the man that organized the marching.

THE NATIONAL ladies' hairdressers' exhibition, gathered in Toronto, is informed that platinum blondes are on the wane and redhaired women, politely called "titian," are rising in favor. The platinum blonde is a modern invitation, a passing thing, whereas the woman with red hair antedates all the governments and civilization that we know, and may outlast them.

When your distant grandmother of 500,000 years ago dashed into the icy pool to escape a maddened, wounded animal, that creature beheld a lady, not only with red hair on her head, but with red hair all the way down to her feet.

Red hair is the very OLD original hair. The red-headed show strength, in that they have resisted the process of time, clinging to the hair they wore before the ice age.

IN GREECE the navy, in rebellion, threatens to shell the city of Athens and "blow the government into the air."

No war is as bad as a civil war, but it can hardly be believed that any man calling himself a Greek would plan to destroy what is left of "the glory that was Greece."

There is not much of it left, and it would be a pity to sacrifice it for the sake of a passing political quarrel.

NEW YORKERS are told that all workers pay in taxes in various ways the earnings of one day every week. The man who has $5,000 a year pays $1,000 toward the support of government.

Some men with bigger incomes, busy just now borrowing money with which to pay taxes, could tell a more interesting story.

WITH LENT beginning, churches are filled. Services on Ash Wednesday were especially crowded, fourteen thousand persons visiting St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York during the day. Many in honor of Lent are giving up luxuries and pleasures that ordinarily seem necessities.

Many millions for five or six years past have been giving up many things that they also thought necessary, and not of their own free will.

AFTER BILLIONS have been poured out to relieve distress, it is surprising to read that in this nation there are more than twenty-two million human beings "on relief" of some kind, supported or helped by public funds. What is necessary to end such a depression and relieve millions of enforced idleness?

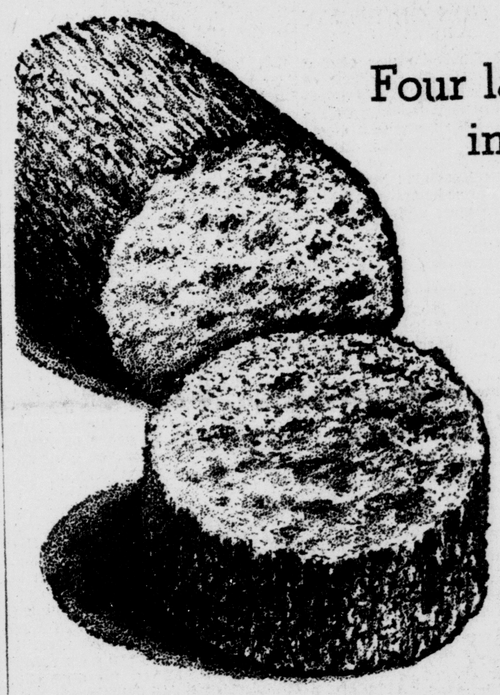

Can it be that men must help themselves, the Lord refusing to keep them otherwise?

(Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

From a study of rats caught on Culion Island, one of the Philippines, where there are 6,700 lepers, it was determined that the rodents do not transmit the disease to man.

New Wilmington High Wins County Championship

McKean Wins Game For New Wilmington In Extra-Period With Field Goal

Game One Of Most Thrilling Of Year For New Champions, Hart-Eagleson Star

Just about a split second before the whistle blew ending an overtime period— thrilling battle Lloyd McKean of the New Wilmington High quintet tossed in a field goal and thereby won the Lawrence County High school championship for New Wilmington high by a score of 28 to 27. Shenango High gave the best they had last night to take the victory from the Eagleson coached team, but it wasn't in the cards.

Thrilling Battle

Doubtless whether or not there was ever such a game as played last night. It was no fit place for anybody with a weak heart. There were thrills galore. It looks as if New Wilmington had the game sewed up in regulation time 26 to 22 with only a minute left to play, but a youngster by the name of Lysko of Shenango High subbing for Gibson as cool as an Eskimo in Alaska stepted up to the foul line and recorded a couple of foul shots that made it 26-26, this coming just as the whistle sounded ending the game. A short time before this Horteg had caged a field goal.

In the overtime period Horteg of Shenango caged a foul and with the whistle poised ready to blow Mc Kean came through and tossed in an almost impossible field goal from under the basket and then pandemonium broke loose in the Community House gym and they lionized the New Wilmington High players for several minutes. It was a justly deserved victory for the Eagleson coached combination after a most hectic season of basketball.

Close All Way

There was never very much space between the scores of the two teams during the entire game. The first period ended 6 to 4 in favor of New Wilmington. Shenango did not make a field goal in the first period. "Wild Bill" Hart one of the smoothest centers that New Wilmington has ever had had a big hand in the victory last night with four field goals and two fouls, for 10 points. Hart had the only field goals alloted the champions in the entire first half of the game.

At the end of the first half the New Wilmington team was trailing 16 to 13. Gibson was the big star for the Sherangos. Hart had 10 of the New Wilmington points.

Eagleson Comes Through

Johnny Eagleson playing his final game for New Wilmington High covered himself with glory last night by getting eight points and getting "hot" in the third period caging three field goals in a row, to put the New Wilmington team ahead 20 to 19 as the third period ended. Gibson was chased on fouls and Shenangos chances were weakened.

Russ Minner of New Wilmington was chased on fouls in the fourth period and this hurt the champions. How New Wilmington High came through in the final seconds with Lloyd McKean holding the spotlight has been told above.

Two Fine Teams

Two of the finest basketball teams in the county clashed last night and the best team won. Shenango deserves credit for the game fight that they waged, but the odds were against them.

Union High school team champions of the 1934 trophy cup will surrender the cup to the New Wilmington High team.

HAMAS-SCHMELING

While the boxing promoters and commissioners have been making faces at each other and calling one another names over here, Germany steps in unobserved and grabs the best match available outside of a heavyweight title fight.

In the Schmeling-Hamas fight in Hamburg tomorrow the winner will probably have clear claim to the honors that go with the No. 1 challenger. If he doesn't it will be because a poor showing has eliminated both contenders.

The most logical spot for this fight would be Madison Square Garden, but the New Yorkers, both the commissioners and moguls deserve no pity for having the show snatched from under their noses.

Many Metropolitans defensively claim the yielding of this match is their gain and Germany's loss, but that is laughable when it is noticed how they are trying to build up an artificial interest in such battles as the Impellettiere-Carnera and Braddock-Lacky engagements.

As much as the American fans would like to see Steve Hamas, an ex-college football hero grab the victory, the Black Uhlan will probably be the winner. In the first place Schmeling is fighting in his own back yard which will likely be an advantage to him in more ways than one, certainly it can't aid Hamas.

Steve can punch and he can take it: he has a smart head and can pile up a big lead in a hurry. He also has the psychological advantage of knowing that he has already given his opponent a sound trouncing. In their last meeting Hamas gave Max the worst lacing he has ever taken standing up.

If you like Steve's chances you'll have to base your arguments on the above facts. However, those who disagree, and they seem to be in the majority, will tell you that his football legs will not hold out for the entire fight. Most of the Passaic lad's battles bear out this opinion. Even in the engagements he won, his impressiveness was always crammed into the first six or eight rounds.

And in fighting Schmeling, Hamas meets a man who starts slowly but does his best work in the latter rounds. Max picks up steams as the battle progresses.

This would indicate that Steve will have to either knock out or severely weaken the German within the first half dozen stanzas or be on the short end when the fight is over. It is a question of whether Steve in the first half of the fight will be better than Max is in the last half.

It looks as though Schmeling's half will win the fight. If Max is in shape he should be able to stay out of danger until Steve tires. The German may not be an expert in the art of boxing but he does have the edge over his opponent in that phase. And Schmeling is in condition if his last fight against Neusel means anything.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

Before a crowd of 21,509 customers who paid $35,488, the Chicago Golden Gloves Amateur Champions of the mid-west were crowned. The champions were: Heavyweight Otis Thomas, Light Heavyweight Joe Louis, Middleweight Bill Treest, Welterweight Danny Farrar, Lightweight Frankie Bojack, Featherweight Al Nettlow, Bantamweight, Troy Bellini, and Flyweight Jesse Levels.

Before a New York crowd of 10,000 people who paid $21,000, Walter Neusel of Germany decisioned King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight contender.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Max Schmeling has been installed a five to one favorite to win from Steve Hamas in their 10-round bout scheduled for Hamburg, Sunday.

Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta posted a 61 to win from Tommy Armour and Bobby Cruickshank in the international four ball golf tourney at Miami.

Aided by two forfeits, Washington & Jefferson boxers beat Bucknell 5 to 2 at Lewisburg. Pethick, eastern conference champion, boxing for Bucknell, knocked out Skulos of the Presidents in the first round at 174 pounds, and Beck, Bucknell, 135, lost his first scrap of the year when he lost by a technical knockout to Count in the first round.

James Duff, 64, undefeated archery champion of the United States when he retired 11 years ago, died of heart disease at Jersey City yesterday.

Hamas-Schmeling To Fight Sunday

(International News Service)

HAMBURG, Mar. 9—There are bigger sports auditoriums in the world than "Hanseatenhalle" but none ever held more national aspirations than this sprawling oval, scene of tomorrow's Schmeling-Hamas bout.

Schmeling's managers believe a capacity crowd of 25,400 will see the fight. They are firm in the belief that it will be a wildly cheering crowd throughout. Their present regret is that the same crowd may not be able to see Schmeling, at some distant date, flatten Max Baer for the championship.

Trains On Beer

Hamas, easing off on his training at his camp in Nissen nearby refused to be discommoded by the distinctly cheerful atmosphere that bathes his opponents headquarters in the Saxon Forest. He continued to train—partly—on beer to the amazement of local fight fans.

He explained his unusual procedure succinctly.

"They dedicated Hanseantenhalle with a big beer brawl, didn't they? It's strong enough to hold up 25,000 people. Isn't it? What's the matter with 'dedicating' myself once in awhile?"

New Wilmington high school girls basketball team won from the Shenango high girls last night at New Wilmington 21 to 19 in a well played game.

Sacred Hearts Christian And Epworth Winners

EPWORTH TAKES OVER FIRST M. E.

Sacret Hearts had the "jinx" on the league leading St. Michael's church team at the "Y" last night and took a 32 to 27 victory over the Babovskymen. It was the third time this year that the Sacred Hearts have won from the St. Mikes. The St. Michaels cannot seem to chase that "bugaboo" of the Sacred Hearts.

Inability of the St. Michaels to convert four tries into points cost them the game. The St. Mikes had 23 foul tries and made but 11 of them, while the Hearts on the other hand had 19 fouls and made 14 of them. At the first half the Sacred Hearts were trailing the St. Michaels 11 to 10. The St. Mikes led at the first period 7 to 4.

St. Mikes Lose Stars

The St. Michaels led at the end of the third period 21 to 2 and in the fourth and final period the Hearts turned on "the heat" and the St. Michaels with Motsko and Chernyavsky out of the game were unable to stop the Hearts. The high scorer in the game was Gallagher with 10 points, while T. Cooper, Motsko, Balla and Chernyavsky had the majority of points for their respective teams. The Sacred Hearts victory throws the Church League second half into a deadlock, for first place. The game was nip and tuck all the way, and one of the best of the entire season at the "Y" floor.

First Christians Win

The First Christians handed the Tifereth Israel team a lacing last night 31 to 18, with Lannigan, Morrison, and Alexander starring for the winners and with I. Solomon and Baron the best for the losers.

Epworth In Front

The Epworth M. E. team walloped the First M. E. tossers 23 ta 13 in the first game on the card last night, with Tommy Jones, G. Wyman and Stitzinger the outstaning stars for the Epworthians, and with Lockley and Caven and Spencer the best for the Methodists.

Rogers Hornsby Not Optimistic On 1935 Browns

Finished Fifth Last Year And Hopes To Land In First Division This Season

Pitching Staff Is Only Mediocre, Very Few .300 Hitters On Team

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Mar. 9.—It was Keller, I believe, who used to extend his hands in a knowing way and there, before our very eyes, a lady was poised in mid-air, suspended. As a matter of fact, she probably should have been expelled but it remained for Thurston to think of a better one. He used to saw the lady in half to the accompaniment of great applause, mostly from other ladies who had never been sawed in half and were of a mind to be jealous.

Anyhow, Keller was only a living room trickster, Thurston an arrant fraud who probably never sawed a lady in half in his life and Houdini a man who doubtless was bothered by the knots in his own necktie. They never made a ball club materialize out of thin air and thin dimes.

Better This Year

I caught Mr. Rogers Hornsby doing this today with his St. Louis Browns and not attaching the slightest importance to the act. He finished only one game out of fifth place last year with something that looked like it might have been left in the areaway.

"We'll be a little better this year," he said today, and then added a little hurriedly, "But not much".

His first baseman, Irving Burns, hit .257 last year. His second baseman, Oscar Melillo, hit .241, his shortstop, Alan Strange, hit .233 and his third baseman, Harland Clift, hit .260. Yet if Sam West hadn't broken a leg in the closing month of the season, he (meaning Hornsby) would have finished at the head of the second division.

Mueller Back

Why, they even have Heine Mueller, through with the Giants seven years ago, named as one of the outfielders and Larry Bettencourt, the old St. Mary's football, listed as another. Bettencourt came up to the Browns as a third baseman six years ago.

"If Oscar is traded, I'll use Johnny Burnett, who hit .293 with Cleveland last year, at third base and shift Clift to second," says Hornsby. "Clift apparently hasn't got the arm for a third baseman. He doesn't knock down enough balls and recover in time to throw the man out."

The only other infielder, outside of Hornsby himself who couldn't pick a dime out of the dust without calling for a groundkeeper, is Aloysius F. Bejma.

Few .300 Hitters

West is back. He's the only man on the club, outside of Hemsley, the catcher, who hit over .300 last year. Ray Pepper, another outfielder, finished with .293 and is figured to improve with the extra year. The third outfielder apparently is not to be Debs Garms. The candidate is "Beau" Bell who hit .337 for Galveston and for whom the browns paid $17,500 in cash.

The catching is all right, Hemsley, Frank Grube and Tom Heath from San Antonio. They're sure because they can't miss. They're the only catchers in camp.

Mediocre Pitchers

The pitching, of course, is everything, with Buck Newsom, George Blaeholder, Paul Andrews, Dick Coffman and Jack Knott carrying on from last year and Bob Weiland, from Cleveland; Fay Thomas, from Los Angeles, and Ashley Hillin from San Antonio ready to pick up the slack.

"Our pitching was so good," adds Mr. Hornsby, "That we lost 51 games by one run last year."

DUCKPIN MATCH TONIGHT

Tonight at Castle alleys the Youngstown All-Star duckpin team will play a match with the New Castle team of the Tri-county duckpin league.

The Mahoning Presbyterians will battle the First Baptists in the feature game on the bill. The First Baptists are undefeated this year and are headed for the championship. In the second game the St. Michaels "B" team will tangle with the Third U. P. team. In the third and final game on the program the First Christian "B" team will play the Highland U. P. quintet.

Council's Answer To Pennsylvania Power Company's Statement

In the daily paper of Wednesday, March 6th, a large display ad. was carried, signed by the P. & O. Electric Company. The contents of this uncalled for and misleading literary effort was to confuse the minds of our people regarding the position of City Council in the matter of the rate contest now in dispute. We wish to state positively that we will not await the action of our State Legislature in the enactment of taxes on corporations. Such legislation may not be enacted at this session, and possibly never. If the power and influence of the Public Utilities Corporations can prevent, it will never be enacted.

Council did not agree individually or as a body to this scheme of procrastination. We have the facts, and with an adjustment on the value of several pieces of property which the P. & O. Company wish to have appraised at several times their real value, we are ready to proceed with a rate agreement.

This statement is made that our citizens may have a clear understanding of the position of Council in this mater.

This notice of denial is paid for by the members of Council—NOT BY THE CITY.

CHARLES B. MAYNE, MAYOR.

D. O. DAVIES, Councilman.

Stock Market Trading Dull

Market Drifts Lower Today Under Pressure, Enthusiasm Is Lacking

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—The stock market drifted lower today as pressure was renewed on the rails, oils, and some of the leading industrial shares.

Trading was dull and the ticker stopped at frequent intervals, indicating a dearth of speculative enthusiasm.

The lower drift of prices was evident from the opening gong when fairly large blocks of Standard Oil of N. J., and Socony Vacuum made their appearance on the tape at their year's lows and subsequently eased under them. Other oil shares were quiet and comparatively steady.

In the railroad group there were renewed offerings of Atchison, Union Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio, which broke to a new low again, as losses ran to a point. The steady selling in the carrier shares came in the face of a larger than expected increase in car loadings last week, but this was attributed to an increase in coal shipments resulting from fears over the Guffey bill which would make the fuel a public utility.

General Motors and Chrysler were again offered in sufficient amounts to bring fractional losses. Industrial shares including U. S. Steel were lower.

There was little to feature the utility shares. The group as a whole maintained a comparatively firm appearance in the face of the general softness. Consolidated Gas eased fractionally as did American Water Works, while North American held firm.

Mining shares were neglected and made their appearance very infrequently making discernment of a trend here difficult. Chemicals, liquors, aviations and specialties were dull.

The commodity markets furnished little stimulus to stocks. Cotton sold down more than 25 cents a bale, and wheat declined fractionally. Bonds were again mixed and the dollar was slightly easier.

Favorable report of viewers on a proposed road in Shenango township has been made to court. The road begins at a point on the New Castle-Butler highway about 1112 feet east from the point where the Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks cross the said road, thence north to the land of the Lehigh Portland Cement company, which said public road is a street laid out on the Gibson Dale allotment. Regular March term of quarter sessions court for the trial of criminal cases will begin on next Monday. There are only 18 cases to be tried, but among them are two murder cases. They will probably take longer than others as the selection of a jury consumes considerable time. In ordinary cases the jurors are called to the front row of seats where they are sized up by the attorneys. A list of the jurors is then passed back and forth between the attorneys who alternately make selections of jurors until 12 are secured. In murder cases the custom is to examine each juror on his voir-dire. He or she is called to the witness stand and sworn. Questions are then asked as to the juror's knowledge of the case, and views on capital punishment. If the juror is acceptable to one side, the attorney for that side says "We pass the juror. The other side then has a chance to challenge or pass, and if the juror is passed by each side, he or she is then sworn as a juror. Usually there are several persons called who are opposed to capital punishment, in which case they are promptly excused.

Registry assessors in boroughs and townships will begin their duties on May 6. They are required to finish registrations and party enrollments by May 27. A copy of the original registry list must be hung on the door of the building where the election is held in each precinct.

FRUIT CROP UNSCATHED

MERCER, Pa., Mar. 9.—Fruit trees have come through the winter unscathed, say growers. All that is requisite now to a good crop is favorable growing conditions during the budding season of May and June. If the crop escapes without a frost during this period it is predicted that the light crop of last year that totaled 25 per cent of an apple crop and no peaches will more than make up for this loss.

EIGHT YEAR OLD BOY'S BODY FOUND

Missing From Home For 24 Hours When Fiendish Crime Is Revealed

(International News Service)

YPSILANTI, Mich., Mar. 9—Search for a relative of the Streicher family who lives in Indiana was started today as the man-hunt for the maniac slayer of 8-year-old Richard Streicher Jr., spread in scope.

A necktie bearing the label of a Fort Wayne, Ind., haberdashery was found early today in the shed on the outskirts of the city in which police had earlier found splotches of blood.

The relative, police said, had quarreled with the Streicher family four years ago and had not spoken with the parents of the dead boy since. His estranged wife is said to be living in Detroit. Police would not reveal his name.

Body Of Boy Mutilated

The frozen body of the boy, mutilated with 17 knife wounds and with head battered, was found jammed under a small foot-bridge about 400 feet from the boy's home, from which he had been missing for 24 hours.

Guard Daughters Of Police Commissioner

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—New York's drive on vice and gambling racketeering took on the aspects of an out-and-out war between the police department and the organized underworld today when it became known that threats had been made against the two attractive daughters of police commissioner Lewis J. Valentine.

The girls, Ruth and Miriam Valentine, aged 18 and 16, respectively, are being constantly guarded by crack detectives under orders to shoot to kill if anyone attempts to molest them.

Last night when the girls attended lenten services in Brooklyn they were taken to and from their church in police squad cars and uniformed men are being kept on guard day and night in front of their home.

The first threat against the girls was received by Mrs. George Scanlon, neighbor of Commissioner Valentine. A man called her on the phone and she was told to inform him that bodily harm would befall his daughters if "he doesn't watch his step."

Declares Girl Shot Herself

ALSO TELLS JURY WOMAN SHOT HIM

(International News Service)

LEBANON, Pa., Mar. 9—Taking the stand in his own defense, Byron A. Laudermilch, 60 year old manufacturer, today denied that he shot and killed Emma Miller 26, the factory worker with whom he has been friendly for six years.

Instead, he charged the girl shot him first and then sent a fatal bullet into her breast from the same gun.

He left her, he testified, in a roadside ditch near the lonely National Guard reservation at Colebrook, to seek aid but was unable to continue further after he reached a cottage he owned a short distance from the scene of the shooting.

Girl Shot Him

Calmly and quietly the elderly manufacturer testified concerning his friendship and intimacies with the girl who once had been employed in his factory. He told how they went riding on the evening of December 5 when the girl was fatally wounded. As he stood by his car parked near the deserted reservation, he said the Miller girl shot him in the side and then ended her own life. She died several days later in the Good Samaritan hospital at Lebanon.

The commonwealth, however, maintains Laudermilch, anxious to break his friendship with the girl, shot her out of jealously and resentment.

District Attorney James W. Atkins rested for the commonwealth this morning and defense Attorney Clarence D. Becker outlined Laudermilch's case, asserting he would show his client was innocent of the murder charges of which the commonwealth demanded the death penalty.

Letherman Case At Greensburg To Reach Jury Today

Pleas Being Made In Case—Defense Asks For Acquittal

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Mar. 9.—A dramatic plea was made in a tense courtroom here today by defense attorney Vincent Smith for the jury hearing the murder trial of William Letherman, youthful athlete, to send him back to his home with his titian-haired mother.

Letherman is on trial for the slaying of his pretty sweetheart, Miss Viola Dennis, Donora musician and former Pitt coed, who died last August 17.

The state was to close its arguments later today and the case given to the jury tonight.

Tried To Reform Girl

Smith pounded with his fists on the desk before the jury box and used all the oratorical ability he could summon to paint Letherman as a model youth, anxious to marry the girl he had courted for four years. He pictured the former University of Alabama student not as a jealous fiend who brutally beat the girl to death in a car near a deserted churchyard but a boy who loved her, protected her and tried to reform her of her alleged drinking tendencies.

"William Letherman's testimony is the only real evidence in this case," shouted the attorney. "It was like pulling teeth for the prosecutor to gain the admission from this boy that the girl he loved drank too much.

"Look at that lovely woman there. She is a mother. She is the mother of William. I want you members of the jury to send that mother back to her home. I want you to send her back to her home in the arms of this boy who has told the whole truth about this terrible thing."

Motions Refused

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9—The Balkans are simmering again. Behind the sabre-rattling between Turkey and Bulgaria over the Grecian Civil War lies a political situation dangerous enough to set all Europe aflame once again.

International News Service presents herewith the inside story of why Turkey has been mobilizing military forces on the Bulgarian and Greek frontiers in Thrace. The story is based on diplomatic information obtained in authoritative quarters here.

Turkey fears Bulgaria may take advantage of the revolution in Greece to regain the coveted outlet to the Aegean Sea of which she was stripped gradually both by Turkey and Greece in the Balkan and World Wars.

Grand Jury In Butler Indicts Youthful Slayer

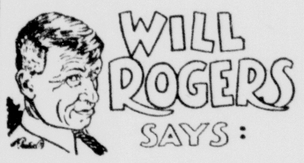

Clarence Halleran, 12, Indicted For Manslaughter Today

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., Mar. 9.—Clarence N. Halleran, 12-year-old Butler boy, was indicted on a charge of voluntary manslaughter by a grand jury here today.

The charge against the lad grew out of the fatal shooting of his playmate, 10-year-old Kenneth Oesterling, last December 28 on a nearby farm following a quarrel. Another count of murder against Halleran, who is believed the youngest boy ever indicted in Butler county on so serious a charge, was ignored.

Wendell Geibel, 13, also of Butler, who was held with Halleran following the shooting of Oesterling, was dismissed.

New Warfare Seen In Senate

Disrupted Senate Heads Into Political War On Farley Probe Issue

HINT FREE DEBATE MAY BE CURBED

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9.—A thoroughly disrupted senate headed toward new political warfare today in the wake of the demand of Senator Long (D) of Louisiana, for an investigation into the official conduct of Postmaster General James A. Farley.

Administration leaders sought to acquit Farley without staging an open investigation of Long's charges. A Republican minority demanded a public inquiry to determine the truth or falsity of Long's accusations.

See Wild Political Wrangle.

The issue will be settled next week but not without a wild political wrangle, the Republicans will be armed with the knowledge that the administration's handling of Long's charge is in direct conflict with long established senate practice and custom.

They recall how a like resolution by Senator Wheeler (D) of Montana resulted in an investigation that drove Attorney General Harry S. Daugherty out of office and another by Senator Walsh (D) of Montana drove Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby out. Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall into jail and recovered tremendously valuable naval oil lands.

The effect of Long's attack on presidential policies and Farley was far reaching. It may serve to administer another defeat to the presi-

ATHENS NORMAL DURING TURMOIL

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

ATHENS, Mar. 9—Taking advantage of an improvement in the weather, Greek government troops in Macedonia launched a decisive campaign against rebel forces today as the nation went on a war footing to cope with the crisis.

War Minister Kondylis personally led the loyal troops in the concerted onslaught against the insurgents. His infantry and cavalry detachments were reinforced by a fleet of airplanes and within a short time after the attack commenced, the rebels were reported in retreat.

To ease the public burden and facilitate financing of the campaign against the rebels, whose revolt against the government of premier Panayoti Tsaldaris has plunged Greece into civil war, president Zaimas signed a degree extending for two weeks payment of all bills due between March 1 and 25.

Athens Normal

At the same time, he authorized the post office to accept for free transmission all correspondence between loyal soldiers and Greek communities abroad provided they embrace pledges of cooperation with the government.

Athens remained normal and outwardly unaffected by the fighting in the provinces, but the gravity of the situation was brough home to the populace by arrival of three Italian warships at Phaleron, the capital's closest harbor, to protect Italian interests.

The government placed high hopes in the Macedonian offensive, believing that a major victory in this sector would bring the revolt to a speedy end.

Press Rebels Back

SHOOTING OCCURS AT ALLISON PARK

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 9.—Verne's my boy, and he didn't shoot his father accidentally, he did it on purpose, to protect me!"

Thus Mrs. Pearl Chatham, 40, mother of eight, summed up here today the Allison Park tragedy that put her husband, Jefferson, 43, in a hospital, and her son, Laverne, 25-year-old bus driver, in jail.

The father will recover surgeons said, after operating to remove buckshot that tore his hand and hip.

The shooting, Mrs. Chatham declared, climaxed 15 years of abuse by her husband.

"He came home drunk last night. I woke him this morning, and he kicked me. He chased me to the pantry and choked me. Then he said he was going to get his gun and murder me. But Verne said, 'I have the gun first.' They fought to the back of the house, where my son got the gun and shot. Everybody knows what a fine boy Verne is."

In the cell where he awaited a hearing, Laverne declined to discuss the shooting.

of territory bordering on the Aegean Sea. Today all of it belongs either to Greece or Turkey.

Fear that Bulgaria one day would attempt to regain this territory led Turkey and Greece to sign a pact providing for the mutual guaranty of their borders with respect to Bulgaria.

It is under this pact that Turkey now has concentrated a fourth of its army in Turkish Thrace and is sending troops into territory supposed to be demilitarized.

The concentration of Turkish forces in Thrace is intended as a warning to Bulgaria that Turkey will intervene if the former attempts to take advantage of the Grecian Civil War to seek an outlet to the sea at Greece's expense.

Alliances Are Involved

Turkey is bound up in military alliances with the little entente which in turn is linked by similar alliances with France.

If Turkey became involved in a war with Bulgaria it could call upon these other allies, which might quickly lead to a general European conflict.

Bulgaria on the other hand has shunned alignment with France's satellites and refused to enter the Balkin pact for the maintenance of the territorial status quo. In this respect, it has won the sympathy of Premier Mussolini, who is believed in diplomatic circles to be desirious of using Bulgaria both as a wedge in French solidarity in the Balkans and as a threat to Yugoslavia, Italy's traditional enemy which borders on Bulgaria.

Relief prevails in authoritative quarters here that the big powers will be able to prevent the present incident from causing the Balkan pot to boil over, but the task is considered a delicate one in view of Bulgaria's unique position of independence from spheres of influence.

Evangelist Stirs Up Citizens Of Hopedale, O., In Attack On Movie Star

(International News Service)

HOPEDALE, O., Mar. 9.—Evangelist Samuel Williams made the mistake of belittling Clark Gable in the movie star's home town yesterday, and today the good citizens (all 800 of them) arose and virtually verbally "tarred and feathered" the well-meaning minister.

"The people of Hopedale look up to Clark Gable as their first citizen," declared Mayor H. M. Bell.

Women of the community defended Gable as 'an artist in the true sense of the word".

Evangelist Williams set off the fireworks when he appeared before the Hopedale Parent-Teachers' Association in the local church—the same that Gable attended as a boy.

"The company that youth keeps largely determines their actions," the evangelist told the citizens. "When a youngster goes to the theater to see the famed Clark Gable, he is mingling in society of the Hollywood stars who glorify perverted love."

The evangelist added that Gable "has brought no real credit to Hopedale."

NEW WARFARE SEEN IN SENATE

dent on the prevailing wage issue in connection with the $4,800,000,000 work relief bill. Long, with biting sarcasm, charged the administration was trying to "buy votes" on the wage issue by offering senators huge slices of the work program for their states. He charged he was being discriminated against as the administration had made no bid for his vote.

May Curb Debate.

Another battle may come over the hint of Senator Carter Glass (D) of Virginia, that the administration will take steps to curb free debate in the senate. This threat has been heard from time to time but no effort ever has been made to prevent unlimited debate—except under the traditional cloture rule, by which a two-thirds vote may limit debate on any bill to a single hour for each senator.

Cloture may be sought on the president's work relief bill. If it is, it will be defeated, since almost a majority of the senate favor unlimited debate on it, even if Huey makes a political speech every day.

An autopsy performed on the body last night by Dr. Stacy C. Howard revealed that the child's clothing had been lifted by the maniac killer who slashed the "X" and plunged the weapon three times into the child's heart.

Splotches of what is believed to be blood were found in a small shed in the rear of a deserted house on the outskirts of the city. Samples were taken to the University hospital, to be analyzed.

No signs of a struggle were found near the bridge, police said, and they were attempting to determine where Richard had been killed. The child's mittens were in place and the boy was relaxed.

Denies Bulgaria Mobilizing

Berlin, March 9—Althought denying charges Bulgaria was mobilizing, premier and war minister gen. Patkeff Zlateff in semi-official dispatches from Sofia today was quoted as avowing his country was determined to maintain peace in the Balkans.

"We reinforced our border guards, which normally consist of groups of four and five soldiers in stretches of from four to ten kilometers along the frontier," premier Zlateff was quoted as saying. "This is entirely inadequate in anticipation of further Greek border crossings."

Heavy rains and snow delayed the "Big Battle" of the Greek revolt, an encounter expected to break out in the Struma River valley, in Macedonia, momentarily and likely to be the final and decisive engagement of the week-old uprising.

A steady stream of planes and cavalry, artillery, and infantry units was being drawn upto augment the already large loyal government forces amassed on the west bank of the Struma, near Salonica.

acquittal in criminal court here today.

Denying the motion, Judge William T. Dom, said:

"All the circumstances taken together warrant this case going to the jury."

Defense Attorney David M. McCloskey then requested Judge Dom to instruct the jury that no evidence was offered to show that Letherman struck Miss Dennis with a bottle or other weapon as contended by the prosecution. The jurist again declined the request.

Nearing Jury

Immediately, the prosecution prepared to ask for a conviction of second degree murder while the defense awaited its opportunity to plea for acquittal on the ground that Viola accidentally fell to her death over an embankment.

The case was expected to reach the jury late today. Letherman is charged with second degree murder. In an effort to bolster his defense, his pretty titian-haired mother took the stand and denied she had tried to stifle the investigation into the girl's death.

The father of the girl, W. W. Dennis, Donora council president, was also a witness. He had directly accused the mother of the youth of hampering authorities.

Was Not True

For the first time Mrs. Letherman showed the emotion strain under which she has been suffering. She stifled her tears with an effort, then bravely glanced at her son and said:

"I heard Mr. Dennis say that William and I called at his house after his daughter's death and that I asked him to stop the investigation." In a voice quivering with emotion she then said: "That was not true."

Mrs. Letherman said her discussion with the father of the girl concerned only the publicity resulting from her death. Mrs. Letherman then took a seat by the side of her son at the counsel table.

The stern-faced father, testifying as the last of the defense witnesses, said that Mrs. Letherman had told him she "saw no reason for an investigation," Mr. Dennis followed Mrs. Letherman to the stand. She had testified about four minutes before the crowded courtroom.

Judge Dom ruled against the desire of prosecutor Eicher to place J. A. Ogilvie on the stand to tell about an alleged visit of Viola and William to a Pittsburgh apartment house. Much of yesterday's testimony was by physicians.

In London there are at present 210,000 Jews.

Last evening the girls of the Canter Bridge club were pleasingly received in the home of Mrs. Eunice Johnston, Sumner avenue, when she entertained informally at their usual social session.

Preceding the card contest, the evening's diversion, a period of friendly conversation was enjoyed, with all assembled about the cozy open fireplace. Following play, lovely prizes were awarded to Jean Glenn and Mrs. C. E. Kennedy for holding honor scores. The former, with Mrs. E. J. Longarce, later assisted the hostess in serving a delicious lunch, and this feature of the evening was most delightful in a setting of St. Patricks appointments. The menu was served by candlelight.

The next meeting of club members will be with Jean Glenn, Richelieu avenue, Thursday, March 28.

SOROSIS PARTY IS MARCH FESTIVITY

One of the delightful March festivities was the Sorosis annual winter party for husbands and other guests Friday evening in the First U. P. church, on Clenmore boulevard.

At long tables arranged U shape in the big assembly room, covers were placed for 36. Decorations were most attractive, consisting of groups of seven yellow candles, a tall one in the center with smaller one on either side, all in green crystal and silver holders. Asparagus ferns beautified the length of the tables and at the places, there were tiny yellow tulip baskets holding candy tidbits. The diner menu was excellent.

For the evening's entertainment, Miss Betty Glover and Jimmy Smith, both well known for their dramatic ability, put on a short sketch entitled "Um Pa", which was hilariously funny. They followed up with two comical readings.

A program of stunts was in charge of Mrs. Roy A. Long who had a variety of clever games arranged for further amusement. The party was a distinct success and much credit reflects upon the committee of which Mrs. Roy M. Jamison was chairman. She was assisted by Mrs. Carmi Glover, Mrs. Thomas Lindsey, Mrs. C. G. The games got underway immediately and included everything from slogan hunting to questionnaires on ancient history. To Mrs. Aria Woods Mrs. Sara Campbell, Mrs. Margaret Clark, Mrs. Anna MacDonald, Mrs. Margaret Sherbine, Mrs. Nell Knox, Mrs. Erma Blues, Mrs. Florence Miller and Mrs. Rachel Reynolds went the prizes.

BIRTHDAY PARTY OF STEPHENSON CIRCLE

Certainly one of the most unusual party settings of the season was that arranged for the Stephenson Circle of the First M. E. church Friday night at the residence of Mrs. John Butler, Fairfield avenue.

It was a birthday party honoring the birthdays of all the members and this fact was remembered in the decorations of all twelve tables where the members were seated. Each table represented a different month of the year; the January table was covered with "snow" and "ice", the July table was colorfully patriotic, while September was decorated with such seasonable objects as pencils and school books. It was all most clever and added to the merriment and enjoyment of the occasion.

The affair was a financial as well as a social success, for each member contributed to the circle a penny for each year birthday anniversay she had ever had.

A pleasant feature was the program of several piano numbers given by Miss Camilla Smith. Several skits were given by group leaders and toasts were offered, during the evening. Mrs. Butler served dainty and delicious refreshments.

The society will have a meeting in April at the church.

SIXTY GUESTS AT DINNER IN CHURCH

The after-dinner attractions included a sketch by the dramatic class of the senior high school, entitled, "The Breakfast," in which Jean Classelman, Phil Greer, Viola Dufford, Bob Brown, Helen Bauman and Mildred Carlson, took part. The student director was Joe Fisher.

David S. Williams, teacher of the class, offered a vocal solo, entitled "A Song in My Heart," with Garth Edmundson accompanying on the piano.

WEDDING AT QUAINT NEW YORK CHURCH

"The Little Church Around the Corner" in quaint New York, was the romantic setting for the wedding this morning at 11 o'clock of Miss Dorothy Lee, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lee of Broadway, Youngstown, Ohio, and New Castle, when she became the bride of William Prince of Jersey City, N. J., the son of Mrs. Edward Burnett, Market street, Youngstown, Ohio, an event of interest to many in New Castle, as well as Ohioans.

Before the altar in the historical church a Methodist minister pronounced the marriage vows, using the single ring service.

The bride was stunning in a chic brown suede cloth suit, fashioned with a jaunty short jacket made with a full peplum attached at the high waistline, and trimmed in kolinski fur. With it she wore a close fitted tricorn hat with butterfly veil and a shoulder bouquet of beige tinted Cyndinium orchids.

Making the occasion of further interest to New Castleites is the fact Miss Kathryn Hodge of Wallace avenue was chosen as maid of honor, and Lew Cartwright, also of this city, served Mr. Prince as best man.

Miss Hodge was attractive in a brown silk crepe frock, made with lace top and a smart jacket fashioned with quilted lapels. She selected a large beige off-the-face hat and other accessories of the same shade, completed her ensemble. Her shoulder corsage was also of tinted Cyndinium orchids.

A wedding breakfast of beautiful appointments supplemented the ceremony and was served to the bridal party at the Hotel New Yorker. Following, the bride and groom departed on an extensive boat cruise.

The bride, a graduate of the Youngstown Rayen high school with the class of '28, has been affiliated with the Pennsylvania Power Company for the past five years, the latter three being located in New Castle with the local offices.

The groom, a graduate of Warren high school at Warren, O., holds a responsible position with the Kingston Electrical Company at Jersey City, N. J.

Since the announcement of the couple's engagement the bride has been feted at a number of lovely parties and showers. Among those who entertained were included Miss Hodge, Mrs. Charles Whalen of North Jefferson street, her girl associates of the Pennsylvania Power, held in the home of Mrs. L. C. Hughes on Sheridan avenue, and several events given by members of her local bridge clubs, all of New Castle; Mrs. Carl Smith of Ford avenue, and the bride's mother, Mrs. Lee, both of Youngstown, O., the latter who entertained just this week at a large informal tea and reception at her Broadway avenue home.

A magnificent collection of beautiful gifts have been received by Mrs. Prince, testifying to her popularity and the high esteem in which she is held.

The bride presented Miss Hodge with an exquisite jeweled combination make-up compact, and Mr. Cartwright also received a gift of jewelry from the groom.

Upon returning from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Prince will take up residence in the Edith apartments, No. 18, located at 251 Lafayette street, Grantwood, N. J. Their many friends in New Castle and vicinity join in extending them congratulations and much happiness.

SISTERHOOD ENJOYS EUROPEAN JOURNEY

P. E. O. Sisterhood members had an interesting journey by automobile through Europe, with Miss Helen Hinkson, who toured there last summer, when she gave a travel talk at the meeting held in the home of Miss Iretta Dart on East Washington street, Friday evening.

There was a good attendance, and previous to the evening's feature, Mrs. J. A. McNeill, the new president, was in the chair when various matters of interest were discussed.

The Sisterhood is planning a silver tea for a date in April which will be of a public nature. It will probably be held in one of the churches under the general direction of Misses Alice Sterling and Frances Geddes of the ways and means committee, assisted by several others.

Matnak-Wincek

Simplicity marked the wedding ceremony performed on Monday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Matnak, of Vandergrift, Pa., when Miss Sophia Matnak, became the bride of Samuel Wincek, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Wincek, of New Castle.

The Rev. Fr. Uber, pastor of the Holy Trinity Roman Catholic church officiated. Double ring ceremony was used.

The bride was attractively dressed in a white satin gown with matching accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of lillies and valley lillies. Miss Helen Wincek, who was maid of honor, wore a lovely peach taffeta gown with white accessories. Her arm bouquet was of peach tea roses. Augustine Matnak, the bride's brother, served as best man. Bridesmaids and ushers included: Miss Ann Mondell, of Ellwood City; Miss Helen Masko, Miss Ann Pasterak, of New Castle; Miss Mary Matnak, of Vandergrift, Miss Margaret Handzell, of Vandergrift, Miss Ann Sutko, of Campbell, O., Miss Mary Puchy, of Homestead, Pa., Steve Kovach, Alois Matnak, John Wincek, all of New Castle; Paul Bardak, of Campbell; Andrew Bartko, of Homestead; John Matnak and Frank Kertze, both of Vandergrift.

THAT FEELING OF UTTER HELPLESSNESS

AS the current year gets underway, the belief grows that times are better. Recovery may not be just around the corner—but it may be within sight.

One of the ways to expedite recovery—a way that is in the power of every citizen—is to reduce fire loss. Fire is the great destroyer. It is the enemy of all the things that make prosperity, employment, industrial activity, business expansion, home and farm development. The dollars that go up in smoke are lost beyond recovery—they represent a complete and utter waste of financial lifeblood.

A fire that destroys a factory may cause a direct loss of but $10,000—and an indirect loss of ten times that amount, in lost jobs, destroyed purchasing power, higher taxes for the community. Cases are on record where a single disastrous fire has brought progress in a flourishing town to a definite halt—and set it back a generation in its development. Insurance may take care of the direct loss—but nothing can compensate for the indirect waste.

Resolve to do your part in preventing fire. Inspect your property and correct hazards. If you are building or rebuilding, make certain that an up-to-date, approved building code is followed undeviatingly. It will take little of your time and the cost will be small—and it will mean dollars in your pocket.

One never experiences a greater feeling of helplessness than when he sees his home or place of business being consumed by flames and no adequate fire protection available to save his property and possibly the lives of loved ones.

All persons should cheerfully join in fire prevention and fire protection measures.

OUR GRAIN PROBLEMS

One of the developments threatened in the United States, affecting our farmers, comes with the prospect of a bumper corn crop in Argentina.

It is said this will be one of the largest crops the southern republic has ever raised. This of course carries a serious threat to the corn program in the United States.

It will be remembered that a few months ago our farmers were "hired" to plow under every third row of corn on the theory that this would increase the price. Curtailment and drought have brought about a short crop and higher prices in our country.

This, of course is of temporary benefit to those who have corn to sell. Under present conditions it is a benefit made possible to them in some part by the fact that there is a tariff on the importation of corn in the United States.

With a short crop in the United States and a bumper crop in Argentina it is easy to see that, without a protective tariff, the South Americans could flood the United States with their corn and take away any benefit that the farmer might possibly gain through higher prices here.

Indeed some crop experts believe that corn will be so cheap in Argentina that shippers can afford to pay the American tariff and still ship their corn into the United States, underselling the American farmer and taking part of his market.

So far as the world market is concerned, American farmers seem pretty well out of it. With the short crop and high costs for himself certainly the American farmer will be unable to compete in the world market with a cheap and bountiful Argentine crop. What is true of corn is of course true of wheat and other grains and will be true also of cotton if our farm experts continue to encourage foreign cotton raising by promising higher prices and shorter crops here.

The American grain experts are already beginning to cast dubious eyes toward Canada. It is predicted now in several quarters that the time will soon come when Canada can ship its wheat into the United States and sell it, in spite of the American tariff. This of course will be done because of the difference in cost of the United States and Canada, due in part to our wheat curtailment program.

In fact it is reported that some Canadian wheat shipped to the United States has already been released for sale here. It is a well known fact that large quantities of rye from foreign countries have been sold in the United States during the past year at the very time that American farmers were being urged to raise less grain.

Isn't it about time that our agriculture legislation received a thorough currying?

THE GREAT AMERICAN TEXTBOOK

An interesting fact is brought to light by questionnaires sent out by the National Recreational association. It is revealed that of the ten things which those who have spare time on their hands prefer to do, reading of newspapers and magazines heads the list. There is no more profitable recreation than reading. It soothes frayed nerves, it chases worry, and, above all, it keeps the reader in close touch with current events.

One of the remarkable developments of the age is the advance made in methods of disseminating news of the world. The modern newspaper does not know the meaning of distance. It brings occurrences from local and far distant points to the very doorstep of the reader. The American citizen today has a more thorough comprehension of affairs, governmental, educational, scientific and, of course, criminal, than at any time since this country was founded.

The American newspaper might be called a textbook which is issued daily.

France at last has taken official cognizance of the American depression. Hotel rates are down 25 per cent.

A fox at Groton, Mass., turned and chased the hounds, demonstrating that that is a game at which two can play.

An Omaha baker has to pay $2,000 because a customer bit on a nail in a cherry pie, which means that it will be a long time before this baker's pies are restored to a paying basis.

Former Mayor Walker comments that he is "stoney broke", that he has been offered "everything but a subway" to come back to New York, and that he is no longer a "good-time Charlie". Still a wise-cracking Jimmy, though.

A PAIR OF SHEARS

I hold a pair of shears in my hand. Idly I work them, thinking of something else as I do so, and as I cut a piece of paper, it seems to me suddenly as though I had never looked at a pair of shears before.

This pair of shears is not a very good pair. The blades are dull. The points are broken...But they do the work I ask of them and I suppose that is sufficient...And at the moment I hold these shears and think about them, they seem a marvelous invention to me. Just two pieces of mental, fixed together at one end by a screw, the blades sharpened, an arrangement at the lower end for my fingers and my thumb to grip... That's all there is to the common machine, and yet long ago some man dreamed over this device and was triumphant and godlike when he invented this cutting tool. He had thought of a way to use natural laws simply, easily, conveniently. A wonderful invention, he thought then; as I think now.

A man's life should be like this pair of shears. As well arranged. As balanced. With a cutting edge... One blade his abilities, the other his desires. One blade his needs, the other his code. One his heredity, the other his experience. One his dreams, the other his deeds. One blade his mind, the other his emotions...And back here where a man grips firmly, should be force, should be faith, confidence, philosophy and a measure of certainty.

Thus a man cuts his way through the tough material of existence, dividing the useless from what he would save. Thus he cuts through doubt and bewilderment, despair and illusion. With the iron shears of truth he may, if he be wise enough, shape a good life for himself. Or, cutting awkwardly and blindly, spoil the rich product of the weaver.

I would that my shears were sharper! I would that my hand were steadier, my eye were truer, my vision were fairer!

Instead of ridiculing the optimist, it might be well for you to adopt some of the enthusiasm and self-confidence of that happy one.

There is need for optimism these days, just to live and keep well.

Not blind optimism, but a real faith accompanied by helpful action.

There are too many "word of mouth" optimists and not enough people who back their faith with deed.

The prolific talker of success is often weak and inefficient in action.

Recuperation, whether it be from illness or economic distress, requires strenuous effort to effect a cure.

A spirit of perseverance is necessary to work out successful recovery.

Although optimists are called "builders of air castles" not all of them are visionary and unreliable.

The true optimist has vision—and without vision nothing can be attained.

A FARMER DISCUSSES CITY LIFE

'Twas in a country barber shop and
I was in the chair,
Half dozing while the barber ran
the clippers round my hair.
When two old fellows gossiping an hour or two away
Attracted by attention and I heard
one ancient say
To his whimsical companion in a very earnest tone:
"Did you ever spend a winter in the city all alone?"

"You haven't. Well, then, listen for a minute now to me
You've no idea how dreadful and
how lonesome life can be.
Out here we know each other and
we pass the time of day
And we say good night and morning
in a cheerful sort of way.
But once you're in the city you can come and go for weeks
Among a million people but nobody ever speaks.

"They sent me to a rooming house
and it was nice and clean
But no one asked we where I'd been
or asked me what I'd seen.
They knew that I was working and
they knew I paid my bills,
But they were all too busy seeing
shows and chasing thrills.
And 'tending to their own affairs to
even notice me
Or wonder was I well or not or share my company.

"A stranger in the city can a lonely
stranger stay,
For city folks don't neighbor in the good old-fashioned way.
They couldn't hire me back again"
With this he closed his tale:
"I'd rather spend the winter in the county court-house jail."
And though I chuckled hearing him,
I felt ashamed that he
Had such a harsh opinion of my city
and of me.

Bible Thought For Today

For where envying and strife is, there is confusion and every evil work.—James 3:16.

The sad part is that times are improving in spite of the professors and people will think their queer theories did it.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:00. Sun rises tomorrow 6:21.

THEY'RE RARE AT THAT

Boy: What's leisure daddy?

Father: Leisure, my son, is the two minutes' rest a man gets while his wife is hunting up something else for him to do.

When John Salver, 87 a hitch-hiker, suffering from a cold, was taken to a hospital at Latrobe, Pa., it was found that he was wearing three suits of underwear, six shirts, several pairs of trousers and many layers of grime. With all that wardrobe on it's a mystery how he managed to catch cold.

Press reports tell of a big lion in the Los Angeles zoo, whose life was saved by a blood transfusion. We're puzzled to know who furnished the blood. It must have been one of those he-men we hear about but so seldom see.

America wasn't built by men who began each job by saying: "Now where can I get some help."

We never expected to live to see the day when sand, gravel and even common clay would be taxed, but they've got a bill in the legislature now to do that very thing. Pretty soon they'll be taxing the farmer for all the loose stones in his fields, and the bushes that grow in his fence rows. Even a tax on one's patience wouldn't be surprising.

A stranger in town strolled over to the local baseball field to see a game that was going on. Turning to a boy, he inquired: "What's the score?"

The boy answered: "Forty-four to nothing, and none out.'

"It don't look any too good," said the boy. "Our side ain't had a chance to bat yet."

But let the government buy all unused land and offer it free to homesteaders and you'll see 'em go back to the farm.

MORE LISTENERS NEEDED

An old negro man, who is of the reliable kind, appeared one morning for work. His head was all bandaged and he could hardly see. The employer asked him what was the trouble.

"Nothing', Boss—not a thing; I'se all right," he replied.

"But," insisted the employer, "you are all bandaged up; what kind of a fight have you been in?"

"Ain't been no fight," said Mose; "I just talked when I ought to been list'nin,."

How nice to be rich, so you can have a country estate with the quiet and privacy that a poor hill-billy enjoys.

Correct this sentence: "I cannot marry you," said she, "for my parents do not approve of you."

Moving people from hard-up regions isn't so difficult. The hard part will be to find room for them on Easy Street.

We see the cleverness of it now. The idea is to help the farmer and make food so scarce and high that starving city people will go back to the plow.

As we understand Dr. Townsend's testimony, the scheme wouldn't work but wouldn't it be a dandy if it did?

If you'd like to enjoy some of the experiences of your forefathers just drive off a concrete road on to one of the old fashioned dirt roads. We know a man who did this the other day and it cost him a five spot to have a farmer haul him out of the mud. It's not so many years ago that there were no concrete roads into New Castle. Who says, "them was the good old days?"

MARCH 12 BABIES

As has been his custom for many years, the Hints and Dints Man will give five dollars (currency instead of gold) to every baby born in Lawrence county on his birthday, March 12, next. That don't mean kids born on previous March 12ths. Every year we get letters asking for the $5 from birds a hundred years old and less. All claims for the five dollars must be made by doctor's certificate or other reliable evidence before April 1, 1935. Twins get three times as much. Triplets $25. If anyone wants to pull one of those five-baby stunts we will try and make it worth while for them. Canada seems to be the only place where those things happen. We are prepared to guarantee the $5 to every baby born on March 12 in spite of the depression. The money was made under a Republican administration.

Many a girl who says she could have married anyone she pleased, has never pleased anybody to that extent.

HELP

"We've had the best time playing postman," exclaimed the small hopeful of the family. "We gave a letter to every lady in the block.'

"But where did you get the letters, dear?"

"Oh we found 'em in your trunk in the attic, all tied up with a blue ribbon."

Fishing and angling for a husband, both take skill and patience, and if a girl makes a good catch the first time, you can put it down as beginner's luck.

It's dollars to doughnuts the guy who crashes the red light is never in any real rush to get where he is going.

A New Castle realty agent was showing a house to a prospective renter the other day and it happened to be raining. The prospect asked if the rain always came through the roof like that. And the agent, true to his calling replied, "Oh, no: only when its rains."

An east side man who has been suffering from frazzled nerves, went to his family physician for a diagnosis. After looking him over, pulling out his tongue and thumping his back the doctor said: "You must quit thinking about yourself, bury yourself in your work." To which the sufferer replied "Great Scott, doctor, I'm a concrete mixer."

It isn't the demagogue that matters, but the fact that America contains enough morons to give him power.

It is easy to recognize a senator. Just say "Huey!" and observe how scared he looks.

But senators may not be afraid of Huey. You know how dignified grown-ups humor a naughty boy to avoid an embarrassing scene in public.

Americanism: Selfish and foolish groups working hard to control the nation; others doing nothing and helplessly hoping for the best.

The funny part is that we still trust the wisdom of pundits who said Mussolini, Stalin and Hitler wouldn't last.

The reformers seem to have no definite policy, except that a $50,000,000 experiment won't break us even if it doesn't work.

A wild goose, on its way north from Florida dropped off here yesterday long enough to say that business is booming down that way. Hotels are filled up and folks who drove down and who camp in the old bus are living on oranges and climate. Babson, the great Boston financier is among those present. He's writing letters, telling about the pickup in business. But wait till he and the other nomads get back home and they'll waken up.

Sometimes a pessimist is a man who backed an optimist and it didn't turn out right.

Pennsylvania imports 25,000 horses a year from the middle west to take care of the demands on its farms. Looks like some of the farmers are overlooking a bet and could raise horses better than some other product to try and raise the mortgage.

Racial equality is a local issue. The community that believes in it is probably right.

LACKED THE MONEY

"John, do you love your sister?" "Yes, pa." "Well, show me how you love her." The boy stood still, not knowing what to do. "John, how do I express my love for your mother?" "Oh, you give her some money, but I ain't got any."

The Girl Next Door says that many a batchelor gets married through a miss understanding.

Now that kiss-proof lipstick has been invented, all we need to find is a kiss-proof girl to apply it to.

Forgiveness: Forgetting the sting because it has quit hurting, and making a virtue of a bad memory.

Sarcasm is what you remember you should have said after the other fellow has had the best of the argument and has gone home.

If the man who "incites to riot" should be jailed, why not, in case of a wreck, jail the man who sold the liquor?

Most people are flattered to be told that they have a sense of humor. We don't agree with them—after seeing the husbands that some of them have.

Even a bull can't stay in a china shop forever, but Huey Long seems to be able to retain his place in Uncle Sam's senate. About all we hear from Washington these days, is Huey's attack of somebody, or somebody's attack on him. This may be allright if we're paying our senators for vaudeville, instead of attending to the nation's business.

You see, by developing a lot of new water power, we can save enough to support the jobless coal miners.

Americanism: Jailing the poor who protect a bandit to get a share of his takings; voting for the candidate who promises to snitch public money for us.

When some people get into trouble their first thought seems to be to rush to the newspapers to try to get it kept out. They would have the newspaper bear the criticism for keeping it out, instead of themselves for their act. The best way to avoid unpleasant publicity is to follow the straight and narrow path and do nothing to be ashamed of. Fear of publicity does more to prevent crime than jails or penitentiaries

Yes, children, your parents also began married life with nothing. But they were used to it.

Long engagements are risky. The groom is liable to get knocked off by a car after the trousseau is bought.

But there is still a demand for a car that won't scrape the bumps, crack your head or do more than 50.

Pre-radio days had advantages. Cranks couldn't reach the millions who never read anything.

Bridegroom: A kind of tool used to obtain a sweet ring, a smell wedding and a darling little apartment.

What's the use? All you get out of success its time to loaf and fish, and the poorest can do that

Unrest In Japan.

Ohio Relief Controversy.

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—Not much is heard of terroristic fascism in Japan—but that is because those who write or speak of it in Japan seldom live to finish the tale.

Evidently there is a strong undercurrent of unrest in the Nipponese empire. Thus the military clique that runs the nation suppresses even mention of any untoward condition as "unpatriotic."

Now a bill has been introduced into the Japanese house of representatives providing the death sentence for organizers and leaders of any political organization which seeks to change the form of government. It is said to be aimed at Communists, but it can be used equally by a mere twist of accusation against any party opposing the party in power.

The death penalty merely legalizes the "patriotic assassinations" that now take place when a man rises to oppose the clique in power.

How patriotic the patriotic organizations are which perform the assassinations may be judged by this incident: One of the leading professors in Japan, an authority on constitutional law, had said in one of his books, that the constitution derived from the people. A mob of one of the patriotic societies descended upon the home of the professor, accused him of lese majesty and demanded that he change the passage to read that all power was derived from the emperor as a divinity. The alternative to the professor was death.

How tense the situation is may be gleaned from this excerpt from a speech that Masazumi Ando dared to make in the Japanese parliament:

"The press is unable to express its view freely owing to the fear of terroristic violence. Even the members of parliament who criticize the militarists on the floor of the diet are charged with harboring traitorous thoughts and are placed on the army's blacklist. . . . Many of these so-called patriots are only bogus patriots."

RELIEF AND SECURITY

The federal government is learning that forcing the states to do their share in relief is becoming harder and harder. That augers ill for the administration's social security plan. The states there, too, would be called upon to bear part of the burden.

The fact of the matter is, the federal government may have to become all in all as the crisis increases. State's rights are fading.

The entire matter was brought to an issue by Governor Martin L. Davey of Ohio, an anti-New Deal Democrat, who got into office via a political machine. Davey, after trying to replace the Ohio relief machinery with organization politicians, tossed the whole Ohio relief business into the lap of the federal government.

But the federal government tossed it back with a sharp retort—with good reason, too. For Ohio has nearly a million persons on relief rolls, and the state's share is $2,000,000 a month.

Federal Relief Director Harry Hopkins was scathing in his retort. Here are a few bristling statements:

"It apparently has taken the governor 30 days to find out that there are no political assets in handling relief in Ohio, so he decides he will unload the whole business on our doorstep.

"He bitterly complains the Democrats all over the state are being discriminated against (in relief jobs, not in the receipt of relief).

"What kind of Democrats? Who have been barred, Davey Democrats? Appointments in Ohio have been made on a basis of merit."

SATURDAY, MARCH 9

March 9, 1758—Franz Joseph Gall was born in Baden, destined to become an anatomist, physiologist and the founder of phrenology. He early formed the generalization that in the human subject a powerful memory is invariably associated with prominent eyes.

His doctrines were interdicted by the government as being dangerous to religion.

March 9, 1762—Jean Calas, 64-year-old French merchant, was broken on the wheel by judicial sentence, because his son committed suicide! The father was blamed for the boy's act because the younger Calas had been made despondent by parental objections to certain of his desires.

March 9, 1862—The so-called battle of the Monitor and Merrimac was fought.

Actually, it was the battle of the Monitor and the Virginia, for the Merrimac had been given a new name when her half-burned hulk was raised and rebuilt as an ironclad warship.

No life was lost in this battle that made the navies of the world obsolete. And when the battle was fought, the Monitor didn't belong to the U. S. Navy, it was the property of its builder, John Ericsson, Swede!

SUNDAY

This Date's Yesterdays, March 10, 222 A. D.—Various Avitus Bassianus, Emperor Elagabalus of Rome, aged 17, was beheaded by the Pretorian Guard.

Thus ended a 3-year-reign that is the most infamous in history. His childish cruelties are indescribable, his boyish whims and pranks classic.

March 10, 1848—The treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo was ratified by the U. S. Senate, thereby terminating the U. S.-Mexican war.

The treaty brought us our third largest accession of territory, yet nobody knew then how much it was! For after Mexico had acceded Upper California, Nevada, parts of New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona and Texas, it took five years and the Gadsden purchase to straighten out the boundary lines.

March 10, 1916—The United States was seething with indignation and expecting to go to war. Not with Germany, but with Mexico.

That the first regular broadcasting station went on the air at Pittsburgh, in 1920, as is often claimed.

We've already pointed out here that Dr. Lee DeForest broadcast regular programs, including opera from the Metropolitan, from his High Bridge station in New York, in 1916. O. C. Munson, San Jose, Calif., forwards information that Dr. Charles D. Harrold began broadcasting regular musical programs in 1909, established two-way communication with the San Francisco in 1912 and aired programs from the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915. We'll see how long it is before KDKA again claims that it is the world's oldest broadcasting station.

A MORTGAGE, BOSS

Speaking of mortgage foreclosures Uncle Joe, an old negro, had just paid the last installment on a small farm.

"I'll get your deed made out right away, Uncle Joe" the agent said.

"If it's all the same to you, boss, I'd much rather have a mortgage," the old darky replied.

Somewhat surprised the agent suggested perhaps Uncle Joe didn't know the difference between a mortgage and a deed.

"Well, maybe not," said the old man reminiscently, "but I owned a small farm once to which I had a deed, and de Fust National Bank had a mortgage, and de bank got mah farm."

THE EYES HAVE IT

The presiding officer was trying to hold the attention of his audience when a beautiful young thing strolled nonchalantly down the center aisle. All eyes followed the Mae West swing of her hips until the exasperated chairman raised his voice:

"Gentlemen, there's a motion before the house!"

And a voice from the rear replied: "You're telling us?"

Preacher From South To Have Meeting Series

Rev. Perry R. Rood, Of Tennessee, To Conduct Meetings In Nazarene Church

REV. PERRY R. ROOD

Rev. Perry R. Rood of Bristol, Tenn., will begin a special series of evangelistic meetings at the local Church of the Nazarene, Sunday morning, March 10, to continue over to Sunday evening, March 24. Services are to be conducted every night at 7:30 o'clock.

Rev. Rood is a man of strong southern personality, and a mighty preacher of the old time Gospel which saves men from their sins. His success in the evangelistic field has been quite phenomenal for several years. A special song service will precede each meeting, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Lester G. Fury.

The Nazarene church, located at 27 West Falls street, has recently been dressed up with a fine new coat of paint, through the cooperation of its friends.

New Pastor Here On Palm Sunday

Rev. Dr. John J. McIlvaine To Take Up Pastorate Probably April 14

Rev. Dr. John J. McIlvaine

While it is probably too early for conclusive opinions concerning Rev. Dr. John J. McIlvaine, the pastor-elect of the First Presbyterian church, it is increasingly evident that the church has selected an outstanding young spiritual leader to fill the pulpit.

In years he is a young man, barely 40 but his experiences have been so well rounded that he comes to the church here well prepared. The newspapers of Indiana county, where he has served for the past six years are unanimous in voicing regret at his departure, and speakly highly of his work as pastor of the First United Presbyterian church of Indian.

Governor's Church

The First United Presbyterian church of Indian was known as the "Governor's Church" for the four years from 1927 to 1931, for it was here that Governor John S. Fisher worshipped. Dr. McIlvaine was the pastor of the church during two years of Governor Fisher's incumbency.

During the war Dr. McIlvaine was an aviator in the United States air forces and he has been an active member of the American Legion in the cities where he has preached since being ordained. Among ex-service men here he will be welcomed as another service man. There are two such ministers here now, Rev. D. L. Ferguson of the Highland U. P. church and Rev. C. Warren Johnstone of the Central Christian church. None of the three served as chaplains during the war, all of them were active fighting men.

Dr. McIlvaine is selecting his home here it is reported, and will probably occupy the Bradford house, Leasure avenue and Mercer street. Final action upon his resignation from the Indiana church will be taken by the congregation there March 13 at a congregational meeting. It is probable that the first Sunday Dr. McIlvaine will occupy his pulpit here will be Palm Sunday, April 14.

The church he is leaving is an historic old one and since 1818 has had but seven pastors including Dr. McIlvaine.

QUESTION BOX WILL FEATURE

Will Be Part Of Sunday Evening Service At St. Mary's During Lent

An interesting feature of the Sunday evening services at St. Mary's during the season of Lent will be the Question Box. In the vestibule of the church a box is placed and into it non-catholics, as well as Catholics, are cordially invited to deposit questions relative to Catholic doctrine and practice. These questions are answered on Sunday evenings at 7:45. The answering of questions will supplant the sermon during the Lenten period.

On Tuesday evenings at 7:45 there will be the regular devotions in Honor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help together with a sermon and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

On Friday at 7:45 there will be the Way of the Cross, meditations on the sorrowful journey made by Jesus Christ to Calvary, which will be followed by Benediction. There will not be a sermon on Friday evenings.

Trinity Church Holy Communion Sunday Morning

Holy Communion Will Be Conducted At Local Trinity Church

The National Council of the Episcopal church with headquarters in New York City asks all communicants of Trinity church to receive the Holy Communion either at 7:30 a. m., or at 11:00 a. m., tomorrow. This is in common with all of the Episcopal churches throughout the land. The First Sunday in Lent has been made "Forward Movement Church Wide Corporate Communion Sunday." In the past there have been such observances for women and girls under the leadership of the Woman's Auxiliary; and for men and boys under the direction of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew; but this is the first time that the whole communicant strength of the church has been asked to mobilize in its history, or since 1607 in this country.

As befitting an occasion with such great spiritual possibilities, when the 1,363,414 communicants are asked to participate in the greatest service known to man, and to receive the greatest benefit man may have on this earth, the Rev. Philip C. Pearson has chosen a spiritual subject for his sermon, "Echoes from the Heart of God." A special program of music will be rendered by the Senior choir with Paul B. Patterson at the organ.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. March 8—two arrests, on charges as follows: drunkenness 1 and violation of parking law 1.

Council has referred to Solicitor Robert White a complaint of residents in the vicinity of Cumberland avenue, who allege that a "goat farm" is being operated in that thoroughfare. According to a statement of one of the signers of the complaint, the odor is not to the residents' liking and they would like to have the goats banished.

There were 203 persons arrested by city police during February, according to the report of Mayor Charles B. Mayne, delivered to colleagues in council session yesterday. Sixty-five paid fines, amounting to $372.00. Ninety were arrested for drunkenness, which is a high mark for some time. Thirteen others faced a twin charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Only 56 were arrested for violating parking and traffic rules.

The first person arrested in the city for murder in more than a year was taken into custody last month. He was James Mitchell, alias "Thin Dime", whose wife died in the New Castle hospital. The prisoner was taken to a county jail cell and several days ago when it was believed his mind was affected, a commission examined the prisoner, but found him sane.

During February the city received from proprietors of dance halls and places in which liquor is sold and dancing permitted $151.00, representing the cost of one annual license ($15.00) and the rest was for each day on which dancing was held. The money paid in January is still in the city treasurer's office. No 90 per cent refund has been made, because the controller has held up the refund, believing it illegal to approve a refund.

Plans were also made for attending the northwestern district council meeting in Meadville on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

The organization voted to send written recommendation to Congress asking that American flags be again displayed on all United States government buildings.

Family Party At Cathedral Well Attended

Splendid Program Of Entertainment Is Provided By Social Committee

TWO PLAYS ARE GIVEN BY GROUP

One of the largest crowds of the year attended the family party for members of the Valley of New Castle Consistory in The Cathedral last evening. The entertainment committee had provided a program of exceptional merit for those attending, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Prior to the program in the auditorium, Johnny Phillips' orchestra provided music in the lobby which was much enjoyed.

The formal program in the auditorium consisted of two one-act plays, "Advice to the Lovelorn," and "Just 'til morning," presented by a group of high school students under the direction of Miss Clara M. Hartsuff.

The dramatis personae of these plays, which were exceptionally well presented, were as follows:

"Advice to the Lovelorn"

Mr. Jackson—James Dart.
Mrs. Jackson—Irene Saul.
Mary Jackson—Lillian Rumstay.
Minnie Belle Carter — Florence Snyder.
Miss Alice—Mary Brice.
Tom Jones—James Fox.
Chester Wade—James Hartland.
Tony—James Cardella.

Red McIntyre—James Dart.
Chick Dugan—James Fox.
A Guard—Everett Barker.
Singer—Avery Rigby.

Following this program, dancing was enjoyed in the ball room, with cards in the East Lodge room. During the intermission of the dancing program, a floor show was staged under the direction of Miss Nellie M. Brady, consisting of the following numbers:

Toe Dance—Katheryn Hartsuff.
Our Mae West—Pattie Bilzi.
Bit of the Bowery — Thomas Armand and Romie Appolitto.
The waltz you saved for me—Katheryn and Leone.
Our Sally Rand—Donna Paris.
Some Tapper—Leone.
Adagio—Katheryn and Andy.

The Scottish Rite social committee responsible for last evening's fine program was composed of S. Reed McGown, chairman; George F. Beitsch, W. Charles Sankey, and Albert B. Street.

Former Lawrence County Folks Make Good In Far West

Mrs. Bessie Gillespie And Brother Back On Visit To Princeton Relatives

Mrs. Bessie Gillespie, son Paul, and brother, Howard Allison, are here from the state of Washington to visit Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Allison of near Princeton. Both Mrs. Gillespie and Howard Allison are former Lawrence county residents, being children of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Allison of Princeton.

Mrs. Gillespie's husband is a southerner. After their marriage they decided to try their fortunes in the far west. A ranch was purchased in Washington, planted to fruit and is now in bearing. Some idea of the extent of the fruit orchard can be had from the statement of Mrs. Gillespie that fifteen thousand bushels of apples were picked this year, in addition to hundreds of bushels of peaches and pears. Fifty people are employed during the harvesting season.

Two car loads of apples have just been shipped to New York. Howard Allison accompanied the shipment and sold the apples at a good profit, notwithstanding that the freight from Washington to New York cost around 74 cents a bushel. Apples are selling at 80 cents a bushel in Washington.

Mrs. Gillespie came here on a train. Today she and her son and brother Howard are leaving for Detroit, where they will purchase a truck and an automobile, which they propose to drive through to Washington.

Colonial Unit At East Side School

Large Crowd Spends Afternoon At Thaddeus-Stevens School

Colonial days were re-enacted at the Thaddeus-Stevens school, Friday afternoon, when pupils of the 6B class cleverly presented a unit depicting inhabitants, customs and other interesting phases of colonial life back in 1621.

A large crowd of East Side residents filled a class room to watch the group of boys and girls present an educational as well as entertaining program. A pantomine, "The Story of Pocahontas", and an original playlet, 'Plymouth in 1621" pleased the audience tremendously.

Early in the aftrenoon, the gathering visited several classrooms filled with miniature implements, clothing, cabins, and stockade used in colonial days. The exhibitions were made by the pupils of the 6B class. A colonial candle mold and a cowbell, both 45 years of age, were also on display. These antiques are the property of Mrs. Matilda Parshall, of 711 Junior High street.

The following faculty members were in charge of the unit: Miss Leona Sankey, supervisor; Alice Grimes, Nancy Hilliard, Grace Scollard, Martha McClung and Louise Davies.

The program:
Song, "America the Beautiful"
Pantomine, "The Story of Pocahontas"
Accordion Solo—Emery Swogger
Original Play, Plymouth in 1621"
Oral Composition—Minerva Suciu
Oral Composition—Shirley Gaston
Poem—Betty Cope
Minuet—6B Girls
"Pageant of Industries", 1620-1935"

The following pupils took part: Robert Allsouse, James Anderson, James Cimabotti, Steve Dudzensky, Billie Jenkins, Carl Hammond, Dandy Iozzi, William Johns, Edward Kirkwood, Dominick Mastropietro, Jack McDevitt, George McKinney, Harry McKissick, John Motsko, Carl Richardson, Clare Stockman, Mike Vanasco, Karl Walters, Max Windish, George Doyle, Elizabeth Elari, Shirley Gaston, Eloise Hahn, Mary Hopkins, June Lowery, Mary Matricardi, Evelyn Reno, June Stokes, Minerva Suciu, Marie Veltre and Betty Mae Wright.

Now-a-days a girl doesn't need to be an athlete to keep her cheeks in the pink of condition.

Today

The Gypsy Warning.
Other Sooth-Saying.
Red Hair Rules Again.
Bombard The Acropolis.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

AN ENGLISH Gypsy has predicted the death of Chancellor Hitler before April 1, causing a number of Englishmen to take out speculative insurance policies on Hitler's life with Lloyds. Berlin authorities have naturally watched closely those that might be interested in making the Gypsy prediction come true.

An Associated Press dispatch from Copenhagen says three Americans named Sherman, Mink and Josephson, the last two Jews, and all said to be Communists, have been arrested in connection with alleged plotting against Chancellor Hitler's life.

It seems hard to get rid of modern dictators by assassination. The effort has been made against Mussolini, Stalin, Kemal Pasha, and in all cases without success.

LOOKING INTO the future, "far as human eye can see," some Americans, interested in present conditions and fairly well informed, report that they see numerous, interesting developments that make the Gypsy's predictions seem tame.

For instance, one able man, holding one of the highest official positions in the United States, although not the top place, says:

"You will see all the states of the Union abolished, all ruled by the central government, as forty-eight 'provinces' under governors, appointed by the President.

"There will be only one house of Congress, not two, no Senate necessary, a single chamber of three hundred and thirty members, ruling the forty-eight provinces.

"Instead of national, state, municipal and local courts, there will be only federal courts.

"That will simplify justice, make it quicker and cheaper, as in England. The kidnaping scare has proved that without the help of federal courts, other courts are powerless. We have outgrown our old pretense of separate independent states."

That would surprise Thomas Jefferson, who thought he was planning a long way ahead.

FURTHER, you are told just when "the march on Washington," an imitation of Mussolini's march on Rome, will take place, about half way through 1937. But, you are informed, it will not be a Mussolini program all the way through.

Some gentleman, expecting to be dictator, will march, followed by his hordes, gathered in various ways, chiefly by offering to rob anybody that has any money and divide it.

The leader of the march on Washington, to his surprise, will be routed by some alert, energetic young military person, and that military person will be the dictator, not the man that organized the marching.

THE NATIONAL ladies' hairdressers' exhibition, gathered in Toronto, is informed that platinum blondes are on the wane and redhaired women, politely called "titian," are rising in favor. The platinum blonde is a modern invitation, a passing thing, whereas the woman with red hair antedates all the governments and civilization that we know, and may outlast them.

When your distant grandmother of 500,000 years ago dashed into the icy pool to escape a maddened, wounded animal, that creature beheld a lady, not only with red hair on her head, but with red hair all the way down to her feet.

Red hair is the very OLD original hair. The red-headed show strength, in that they have resisted the process of time, clinging to the hair they wore before the ice age.

IN GREECE the navy, in rebellion, threatens to shell the city of Athens and "blow the government into the air."

No war is as bad as a civil war, but it can hardly be believed that any man calling himself a Greek would plan to destroy what is left of "the glory that was Greece."

There is not much of it left, and it would be a pity to sacrifice it for the sake of a passing political quarrel.

NEW YORKERS are told that all workers pay in taxes in various ways the earnings of one day every week. The man who has $5,000 a year pays $1,000 toward the support of government.

Some men with bigger incomes, busy just now borrowing money with which to pay taxes, could tell a more interesting story.

WITH LENT beginning, churches are filled. Services on Ash Wednesday were especially crowded, fourteen thousand persons visiting St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York during the day. Many in honor of Lent are giving up luxuries and pleasures that ordinarily seem necessities.

Many millions for five or six years past have been giving up many things that they also thought necessary, and not of their own free will.

AFTER BILLIONS have been poured out to relieve distress, it is surprising to read that in this nation there are more than twenty-two million human beings "on relief" of some kind, supported or helped by public funds. What is necessary to end such a depression and relieve millions of enforced idleness?

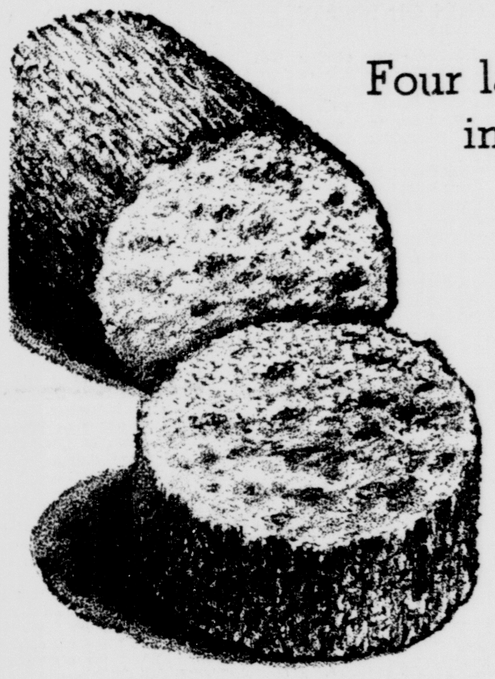

Can it be that men must help themselves, the Lord refusing to keep them otherwise?

From a study of rats caught on Culion Island, one of the Philippines, where there are 6,700 lepers, it was determined that the rodents do not transmit the disease to man.

Liquor Sales Average $1000 Per Day Here

Business at the state liquor store continues heavy it was indicated today by the volume of business which continues. The average sales per day amount to about $1000 with last week standing out as the best week the store has had since it was opened with perhaps the exception of Christmas week.

On orders from Harrisburg the force was cut by two men recently. The business is now handled by the remaining five men. Recent cuts in prices of the cheaper liquor have increased the sales in these brands. The demand for high priced bonded liquors remains about the same as it has.

New Wilmington High Wins County Championship

Game One Of Most Thrilling Of Year For New Champions, Hart-Eagleson Star

Just about a split second before the whistle blew ending an overtime period— thrilling battle Lloyd McKean of the New Wilmington High quintet tossed in a field goal and thereby won the Lawrence County High school championship for New Wilmington high by a score of 28 to 27. Shenango High gave the best they had last night to take the victory from the Eagleson coached team, but it wasn't in the cards.

Thrilling Battle

Doubtless whether or not there was ever such a game as played last night. It was no fit place for anybody with a weak heart. There were thrills galore. It looks as if New Wilmington had the game sewed up in regulation time 26 to 22 with only a minute left to play, but a youngster by the name of Lysko of Shenango High subbing for Gibson as cool as an Eskimo in Alaska stepted up to the foul line and recorded a couple of foul shots that made it 26-26, this coming just as the whistle sounded ending the game. A short time before this Horteg had caged a field goal.

In the overtime period Horteg of Shenango caged a foul and with the whistle poised ready to blow Mc Kean came through and tossed in an almost impossible field goal from under the basket and then pandemonium broke loose in the Community House gym and they lionized the New Wilmington High players for several minutes. It was a justly deserved victory for the Eagleson coached combination after a most hectic season of basketball.

Close All Way

There was never very much space between the scores of the two teams during the entire game. The first period ended 6 to 4 in favor of New Wilmington. Shenango did not make a field goal in the first period. "Wild Bill" Hart one of the smoothest centers that New Wilmington has ever had had a big hand in the victory last night with four field goals and two fouls, for 10 points. Hart had the only field goals alloted the champions in the entire first half of the game.

At the end of the first half the New Wilmington team was trailing 16 to 13. Gibson was the big star for the Shenangos. Hart had 10 of the New Wilmington points.

Eagleson Comes Through

Johnny Eagleson playing his final game for New Wilmington High covered himself with glory last night by getting eight points and getting "hot" in the third period caging three field goals in a row, to put the New Wilmington team ahead 20 to 19 as the third period ended. Gibson was chased on fouls and Shenangos chances were weakened.

Russ Minner of New Wilmington was chased on fouls in the fourth period and this hurt the champions. How New Wilmington High came through in the final seconds with Lloyd McKean holding the spotlight has been told above.

Two Fine Teams

Two of the finest basketball teams in the county clashed last night and the best team won. Shenango deserves credit for the game fight that they waged, but the odds were against them.

Union High school team champions of the 1934 trophy cup will surrender the cup to the New Wilmington High team.

HAMAS-SCHMELING

While the boxing promoters and commissioners have been making faces at each other and calling one another names over here, Germany steps in unobserved and grabs the best match available outside of a heavyweight title fight.

In the Schmeling-Hamas fight in Hamburg tomorrow the winner will probably have clear claim to the honors that go with the No. 1 challenger. If he doesn't it will be because a poor showing has eliminated both contenders.

The most logical spot for this fight would be Madison Square Garden, but the New Yorkers, both the commissioners and moguls deserve no pity for having the show snatched from under their noses.

Many Metropolitans defensively claim the yielding of this match is their gain and Germany's loss, but that is laughable when it is noticed how they are trying to build up an artificial interest in such battles as the Impellettiere-Carnera and Braddock-Lacky engagements.

As much as the American fans would like to see Steve Hamas, an ex-college football hero grab the victory, the Black Uhlan will probably be the winner. In the first place Schmeling is fighting in his own back yard which will likely be an advantage to him in more ways than one, certainly it can't aid Hamas.

Steve can punch and he can take it: he has a smart head and can pile up a big lead in a hurry. He also has the psychological advantage of knowing that he has already given his opponent a sound trouncing. In their last meeting Hamas gave Max the worst lacing he has ever taken standing up.

If you like Steve's chances you'll have to base your arguments on the above facts. However, those who disagree, and they seem to be in the majority, will tell you that his football legs will not hold out for the entire fight. Most of the Passaic lad's battles bear out this opinion. Even in the engagements he won, his impressiveness was always crammed into the first six or eight rounds.

And in fighting Schmeling, Hamas meets a man who starts slowly but does his best work in the latter rounds. Max picks up steams as the battle progresses.

This would indicate that Steve will have to either knock out or severely weaken the German within the first half dozen stanzas or be on the short end when the fight is over. It is a question of whether Steve in the first half of the fight will be better than Max is in the last half.

It looks as though Schmeling's half will win the fight. If Max is in shape he should be able to stay out of danger until Steve tires. The German may not be an expert in the art of boxing but he does have the edge over his opponent in that phase. And Schmeling is in condition if his last fight against Neusel means anything.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

Before a crowd of 21,509 customers who paid $35,488, the Chicago Golden Gloves Amateur Champions of the mid-west were crowned. The champions were: Heavyweight Otis Thomas, Light Heavyweight Joe Louis, Middleweight Bill Treest, Welterweight Danny Farrar, Lightweight Frankie Bojack, Featherweight Al Nettlow, Bantamweight, Troy Bellini, and Flyweight Jesse Levels.

Before a New York crowd of 10,000 people who paid $21,000, Walter Neusel of Germany decisioned King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight contender.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Max Schmeling has been installed a five to one favorite to win from Steve Hamas in their 10-round bout scheduled for Hamburg, Sunday.

Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta posted a 61 to win from Tommy Armour and Bobby Cruickshank in the international four ball golf tourney at Miami.

Aided by two forfeits, Washington & Jefferson boxers beat Bucknell 5 to 2 at Lewisburg. Pethick, eastern conference champion, boxing for Bucknell, knocked out Skulos of the Presidents in the first round at 174 pounds, and Beck, Bucknell, 135, lort his first scrap of the year when he lost by a technical knockout to Count in the first round.

James Duff, 64, undefeated archery champion of the United States when he retired 11 years ago, died of heart disease at Jersey City yesterday.

Hamas-Schmeling To Fight Sunday

(International News Service)

HAMBURG., Mar. 9—There are bigger sports auditoriums in the world than "Hanseatenhalle" but none ever held more national aspirations than this sprawling oval, scene of tomorrow's Schmeling-Hamas bout.

Schmeling's managers believe a capacity crowd of 25,400 will see the fight. They are firm in the belief that it will be a wildly cheering crowd throughout. Their present regret is that the same crowd may not be able to see Schmeling, at some distant date, flatten Max Baer for the championship.

Trains On Beer

Hamas, easing off on his training at his camp in Nissen nearby refused to be discommoded by the distinctly cheerful atmosphere that bathes his opponents headquarters in the Saxon Forest. He continued to train—partly—on beer to the amazement of local fight fans.

He explained his unusual procedure succinctly.

"They dedicated Hanseantenhalle with a big beer brawl, didn't they? It's strong enough to hold up 25,000 people. Isn't it? What's the matter with 'dedicating' myself once in awhile?"

NEW WILMINGTON GIRLS

Sacred Hearts Christian And Epworth Winners

EPWORTH TAKES OVER FIRST M. E.

Sacret Hearts had the "jinx" on the league leading St. Michael's church team at the "Y" last night and took a 32 to 27 victory over the Babovskymen. It was the third time this year that the Sacred Hearts have won from the St. Mikes. The St. Michaels cannot seem to chase that "bugaboo" of the Sacred Hearts.

Inability of the St. Michaels to convert four tries into points cost them the game. The St. Mikes had 23 foul tries and made but 11 of them, while the Hearts on the other hand had 19 fouls and made 14 of them. At the first half the Sacred Hearts were trailing the St. Michaels 11 to 10. The St. Mikes led at the first period 7 to 4.

St. Mikes Lose Stars

The St. Michaels led at the end of the third period 21 to 2 and in the fourth and final period the Hearts turned on "the heat" and the St. Michaels with Motsko and Chernyavsky out of the game were unable to stop the Hearts. The high scorer in the game was Gallagher with 10 points, while T. Cooper, Motsko, Balla and Chernyavsky had the majority of points for their respective teams. The Sacred Hearts victory throws the Church League second half into a deadlock, for first place. The game was nip and tuck all the way, and one of the best of the entire season at the "Y" floor.

First Christians Win

The First Christians handed the Tifereth Israel team a lacing last night 31 to 18, with Lannigan, Morrison, and Alexander starring for the winners and with I. Solomon and Baron the best for the losers.

Epworth In Front

The Epworth M. E. team walloped the First M. E. tossers 23 ta 13 in the first game on the card last night, with Tommy Jones, G. Wyman and Stitzinger the outstaning stars for the Epworthians, and with Lockley and Caven and Spencer the best for the Methodists.

Rogers Hornsby Not Optimistic On 1935 Browns

Finished Fifth Last Year And Hopes To Land In First Division This Season

Pitching Staff Is Only Mediocre, Very Few .300 Hitters On Team

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Mar. 9.—It was Keller, I believe, who used to extend his hanas in a knowing way and there, before our very eyes, a lady was poised in mid-air, suspended. As a matter of fact, she probably should have been expelled but it remained for Thurston to think of a better one. He used to saw the lady in half to the accompaniment of great applause, mostly from other ladies who had never been sawed in half and were of a mind to be jealous.

Anyhow, Keller was only a living room trickster, Thurston an arrant fraud who probably never sawed a lady in half in his life and Houdini a man who doubtless was bothered by the knots in his own necktie. They never made a ball club materialize out of thin air and thin dimes.

Better This Year

I caught Mr. Rogers Hornsby doing this today with his St. Louis Browns and not attaching the slightest importance to the act. He finished only one game out of fifth place last year with something that looked like it might have been left in the areaway.

"We'll be a little better this year," he said today, and then added a little hurriedly, "But not much".

His first baseman, Irving Burns, hit .257 last year. His second baseman, Oscar Melillo, hit .241, his shortstop, Alan Strange, hit .233 and his third baseman, Harland Clift, hit .260. Yet if Sam West hadn't broken a leg in the closing month of the season, he (meaning Hornsby) would have finished at the head of the second division.

Mueller Back

Why, they even have Heine Mueller, through with the Giants seven years ago, named as one of the outfielders and Larry Bettencourt, the old St. Mary's football, listed as another. Bettencourt came up to the Browns as a third baseman six years ago.

"If Oscar is traded, I'll use Johnny Burnett, who hit .293 with Cleveland last year, at third base and shift Clift to second," says Hornsby. "Clift apparently hasn't got the arm for a third baseman. He doesn't knock down enough balls and recover in time to throw the man out."

The only other infielder, outside of Hornsby himself who couldn't pick a dime out of the dust without calling for a groundkeeper, is Aloysius F. Bejma.

Few .300 Hitters

West is back. He's the only man on the club, outside of Hemsley, the catcher, who hit over .300 last year. Ray Pepper, another outfielder, finished with .293 and is figured to improve with the extra year. The third outfielder apparently is not to be Debs Garms. The candidate is "Beau" Bell who hit .337 for Galveston and for whom the browns paid $17,500 in cash.

The catching is all right, Hemsley, Frank Grube and Tom Heath from San Antonio. They're sure because they can't miss. They're the only catchers in camp.

Mediocre Pitchers

The pitching, of course, is everything, with Buck Newsom, George Blaeholder, Paul Andrews, Dick Coffman and Jack Knott carrying on from last year and Bob Weiland, from Cleveland; Fay Thomas, from Los Angeles, and Ashley Hillin from San Antonio ready to pick up the slack.

"Our pitching was so good," adds Mr. Hornsby, "That we lost 51 games by one run last year."

DUCKPIN MATCH TONIGHT

Tonight at Castle alleys the Youngstown All-Star duckpin team will play a match with the New Castle team of the Tri-county duckpin league.

Diamonds are not inflammable in air, however, if put in pure oxygen they will burn at about 850 degrees C.

Council's Answer To Pennsylvania Power Company's Statement

In the daily paper of Wednesday, March 6th, a large display ad. was carried, signed by the P. & O. Electric Company. The contents of this uncalled for and misleading literary effort was to confuse the minds of our people regarding the position of City Council in the matter of the rate contest now in dispute. We wish to state positively that we will not await the action of our State Legislature in the enactment of taxes on corporations. Such legislation may not be enacted at this session, and possibly never. If the power and influence of the Public Utilities Corporations can prevent, it will never be enacted.

Council did not agree individually or as a body to this scheme of procrastination. We have the facts, and with an adjustment on the value of several pieces of property which the P. & O. Company wish to have appraised at several times their real value, we are ready to proceed with a rate agreement.

This statement is made that our citizens may have a clear understanding of the position of Council in this mater.

This notice of denial is paid for by the members of Council—NOT BY THE CITY.

CHARLES B. MAYNE, MAYOR.
D. O. DAVIES, Councilman.
ALBERT A. HOYLAND.
B. F. BUTLER.
J. D. ALEXANDER.

Market Drifts Lower Today Under Pressure, Enthusiasm Is Lacking

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—The stock market drifted lower today as pressure was renewed on the rails, oils, and some of the leading industrial shares.

Trading was dull and the ticker stopped at frequent intervals, indicating a dearth of speculative enthusiasm.

The lower drift of prices was evident from the opening gong when fairly large blocks of Standard Oil of N. J., and Socony Vacuum made their appearance on the tape at their year's lows and subsequently eased under them. Other oil shares were quiet and comparatively steady.

In the railroad group there were renewed offerings of Atchison, Union Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio, which broke to a new low again, as losses ran to a point. The steady selling in the carrier shares came in the face of a larger than expected increase in car loadings last week, but this was attributed to an increase in coal shipments resulting from fears over the Guffey bill which would make the fuel a public utility.

General Motors and Chrysler were again offered in sufficient amounts to bring fractional losses. Industrial shares including U. S. Steel were lower.

There was little to feature the utility shares. The group as a whole maintained a comparatively firm appearance in the face of the general softness. Consolidated Gas eased fractionally as did American Water Works, while North American held firm.

Mining shares were neglected and made their appearance very infrequently making discernment of a trend here difficult. Chemicals, liquors, aviations and specialties were dull.

The commodity markets furnished little stimulus to stocks. Cotton sold down more than 25 cents a bale, and wheat declined fractionally. Bonds were again mixed and the dollar was slightly easier.

V. P. Travers and William B. Park have been granted commissions as Notary Public, and the commissions, with bonds, have been filed at the register and recorders office. There has been an unusually large number of commissions expiring recently.

Wilhelmina Honkonen has issued a writ of attachment against Anna Tervo in which the sheriff is directed to attach any money belonging to the defendant that may be found in the First National Bank of Lawrence county. The amount of the claim is $200.

Parole Office Jack M. Dunlap is notifying husbands who have been ordered to pay their wives allowance, that the payments must hereafter he made at his office, instead of at the offices of attorneys, where it has been paid in the past. This is in accordance with a new order of court.

Walter H. Smith and Emma Smith, his wife, have filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against the G. C. Murphy Company in which damages are asked for injuries sustained by Mrs. Smith when she fell while shopping in the Murphy storeroom. Mrs. Smith claims that there was a wet and greasy spot on the floor which was covered with paper. When she stepped on the paper she slipped and fell, receiving the injuries for which she is claiming damages.

Favorable report of viewers on a proposed road in Shenango township has been made to court. The road begins at a point on the New Castle-Butler highway about 1112 feet east from the point where the Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks cross the said road, thence north to the land of the Lehigh Portland Cement company, which said public road is a street laid out on the Gibson Dale allotment. Under the will of the late James A. G. Gormley of this city which has been probated at the register and recorder's office, all of decendent's property, real and personal, is left to his widow, Elizabeth Jane Gormley. Mrs. Gormley is also named as executrix.

Regular March term of quarter sessions court for the trial of criminal cases will begin on next Monday. There are only 18 cases to be tried, but among them are two murder cases. They will probably take longer than others as the selection of a jury consumes considerable time. In ordinary cases the jurors are called to the front row of seats where they are sized up by the attorneys. A list of the jurors is then passed back and forth between the attorneys who alternately make selections of jurors until 12 are secured. In murder cases the custom is to examine each juror on his voirdire. He or she is called to the witness stand and sworn. Questions are then asked as to the juror's knowledge of the case, and views on capital punishment. If the juror is acceptable to one side, the attorney for that side says "We pass the juror. The other side then has a chance to challenge or pass, and if the juror is passed by each side, he or she is then sworn as a juror. Usually there are several persons called who are opposed to capital punishment, in which case they are promptly excused.

Registry assessors in boroughs and townships will begin their duties on May 6. They are required to finish registrations and party enrollments by May 27. A copy of the original registry list must be hung on the door of the building where the election is held in each precinct.

MERCER, Pa., Mar. 9.—Fruit trees have come through the winter unscathed, say growers. All that is requisite now to a good crop is favorable growing conditions during the budding season of May and June. If the crop escapes without a frost during this period it is predicted that the light crop of last year that totaled 25 per cent of an apple crop and no peaches will more than make up for this loss.
